

FINAL DEATH PENALTY FIGHT BEGUN

DAWES STRIKES AT LAFOLLETTE IN ACCEPTANCE

Calls His Movement Chief Enemy of Republican Party This Campaign

POINTS TO RECORD

Administration Has Accomplished Much, He Says, at Notification

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 20.—Having formally accepted the Republican nomination for Vice-President, Charles G. Dawes entered actively into the party's national campaign today with his departure for Maine to deliver an address at Augusta.

Mr. Dawes will return to his home here next week and then proceed to Lincoln, Nebraska, for another speech, August 29. His first stump tour will begin soon afterward.

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 20.—(By the A. P.) Three issues, "the fundamental principles of our constitution," the League of Nations and the World Court were the principal subjects in the address of acceptance by General Charles G. Dawes of the Republican vice-presidential nomination, last night.

In discussing the constitution, General Dawes attacked the LaFollette movement, socialism and what he called "radicalism" in the LaFollette movement and in one section of the Democratic party. He termed the LaFollette movement the chief opponent of the Republican party.

He prefaced the address with figures on economy in public expense effected by the Republican administration.

"This," said Mr. Dawes, "is a campaign of brass-tacks—not bombast."

"This administration reduced the cost of governmental operation, and it was not by accident."

By this saying, he said, "approximately six million dollars per day lost for national purposes, will be collected in 1925 from taxpayers, than for the fiscal year of 1921."

In the last pre-budget year after debt payments federal expenditures were 59 per cent and those of cities, states and towns 41 per cent, while in 1923, he said, the federal government took 41 per cent of the taxes compared with 72 per cent by the other three.

"The Federal Government," he added, "is headed in the right direction, and most of the states, cities and towns in the wrong direction."

Mr. Dawes said that Coolidge was "uninfluenced by motives of political expediency."

The Republican party, he said, stands firmly on the constitution.

"Opposed to it," he said, "though the result may be to deaden the presidency and make Bryanism succeed the Coolidge policy, is a movement of untried and dangerous radicalism." He said this movement had a platform drawn by one man, designed to soften "apprehension as to what the movement really means."

"A man is known by the company he keeps," said Mr. Dawes, and quoted from Associated Press dispatches concerning the Cleveland convention. He read a statement thronged under the LaFollette banner, and another quoting Eugene V. Debs as thinking it "wise for our party to make no nominations" and "to keep the red flag flying."

"Here is the battle alignment, and here are the flags," said Mr. Dawes.

Between these two armies of "progressive conservatism and of radicalism," Mr. Dawes named the Democratic party "with one conservative and one radical candidate, hoping to get votes by avoiding the issue."

He predicted the Democrats would "suffer the fate which befalls those who try to straddle in a real fight."

"We are face to face with an abnormal condition in this country. The American citizen has seen men advocating in the same state at the same time, irrespective of their inconsistencies, increased wages for railroad labor and decreased railroad rates, and higher prices for beef on the hoof and lower prices for beef on the table. From the average candidate, in either party, he must accept either evasion or a doctrine designed to please him, whether or not it tends to plunge the whole country into disaster."

Strikes at LaFollette

"Robert M. LaFollette, leading the army of extreme radicalism, has a platform demanding public ownership of railroads and attacking our courts."

"Our nation is asked to follow an attack upon them (our constitutional principles) masked behind an aggressive personality, a heterogeneous collection of those opposing the existing order of things, the greatest irony of which, the socialists, flies the red flag; and to what? Into reopening of war upon those fundamental principles of human liberty and inalienable rights of men which are giving in this country safe opportunity to the humblest."

Mr. Dawes said the League of Nations was not approved by the people of the United States because it did not make clear to their minds

SCHOOL BOARD'S NON-RESIDENT VIEWS GIVEN

Will Care For All Outside Pupils Possible, It Is Decided by Board

FACILITIES ARE LIMITED

Tuition Fee to Continue the Same as in the Past, It Is Announced

The city board of education will accommodate all the non-resident pupils it has facilities and money to accommodate, in the high school during the coming year, it is announced by the board. This is announced by the board in rescinding a resolution to raise the tuition fee in the high school from $54 to $108 per year per pupil. The actual cost to the city board of caring for a non-resident pupil is figured at $120 per year.

After State Attorney Allen called attention of the board to the matter on request of some parents living in the county outside Bismarck, telegraphic communication was undertaken today of the likelihood of the necessity to realize his forces by the statement in New York last night by Warren S. Stone, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, denying that he had resigned as treasurer of campaign funds solicited from labor organizations and their members.

Reports that Mr. Stone was preparing to relinquish the task assigned him in the independent organization were accompanied by intimations of differences and some talk of a split, but the latter was denied on all sides.

For 24 hours ending at noon.
Temperature at 7 a. m. 62
Highest yesterday 65
Lowest yesterday 54
Lowest last night 50
Precipitation 0.12
High wind velocity 12

GENERAL WEATHER CONDITIONS

A low pressure area extends in a trough along the eastern Rocky Mountain slope and precipitation occurred from the northern Rocky Mountain region westward to the Pacific Coast. Precipitation also occurred in the upper Mississippi Valley and Great Lakes region. Higher temperatures prevail in the Great Lakes region and along the eastern Rocky Mountain slope while cooler weather is general west of the Rockies.

North Dakota Corn and Wheat Region Summary

For the week ending Aug. 19, 1924:
The weather during the week was favorable for harvesting and threshing, but mostly too cool and cloudy for corn. The spring wheat harvest is well advanced and some late sown wheat is being out early on account of black stem rust. Rye and barley threshing is well under way with generally good results. Flax is good to excellent and ripening; some of the late sown needs rain. Pastures and ranges also need rain in some sections.

Salesman Ready For Wild West

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 20.—A. V. Nichols, traveling salesman of Plymouth, Mass., was taking no chances with the wild west, and so when he invaded North Dakota on a selling trip in his car he parked a revolver.

When he struck Grand Forks, a police officer noticed the gun lying on the car seat, and picked up Nichols under the antique tinting law. After explanations he was released, but the artillery was confiscated.

STONE DENIES ANY SPLIT IN INDEPENDENTS

Declares He Will Not Resign as Union Treasurer for LaFollette Forces

WHEELER COMES BACK

Washington, Aug. 20.—Senator LaFollette, independent candidate for President, apparently had been recalled today of the likelihood of the necessity to realize his forces by the statement in New York last night by Warren S. Stone, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, denying that he had resigned as treasurer of campaign funds solicited from labor organizations and their members.

Reports that Mr. Stone was preparing to relinquish the task assigned him in the independent organization were accompanied by intimations of differences and some talk of a split, but the latter was denied on all sides.

SEVERE STORM CARRIES HAIL WITH IT TODAY

Report Received From Timber That Hail Does Much Damage Around There

RAIN HERE IS HEAVY

A severe electrical and rain storm, which struck Bismarck about two o'clock this afternoon also brought a trace of hail to the city with it. It is believed heavy hail damage was done in some places.

A half-inch of rain fell in Bismarck within a period of about a half an hour, before 2:30 p. m., with likelihood of rain still falling. It appeared, according to weather observers, that the storm which came from the southwest, went on east toward Jamestown, covering a wide territory.

The Northern Pacific railroad received a report from Bismarck, in southern Morton county, near the Missouri river, that a heavy hail storm did great damage there.

The storm appears to be working east, according to reports received by the S. P. railroad. It began raining at Wilton at 3:15, but rain is reported at no other place north of here, although rain is reported across the river. Rain is falling between here and Wishek.

A light hail is reported at Kinross; the amount of damage done was not known.

KID MCCOY TO FACE CHARGES OF GRAND JURY

Ex-Pugilist Is Indicted For Three Separate Offenses By Grand Jury

Los Angeles, Aug. 20.—When Kid McCoy, former pugilist, was arraigned in superior court here today, and the indictment was read to him charging him with the murder of Theresa Mors his eyes flashed and he cried: "I did not."

His formal plea was postponed until next Monday.

Los Angeles, Aug. 20.—Kid McCoy, the boxing Beau Brummel, who 20 years ago strode into a Los Angeles hotel boasting 80 suits of clothing besides the fighting trunks in which he was to make his first appearance here, today slouched on a cot in the county jail, a 31-year-old former pugilist, broke, dejected, awaiting trial on indictment charging him with murder, robbery and assault with intent to murder.

Nineteen witnesses told the grand jury yesterday how the body of Mrs. Theresa Mors, dead of a bullet wound in her head, was found early Wednesday in the apartment she and McCoy had occupied; how a few hours later the Kid's burst into the Mors antique shop in the fashionable West Lake shopping district, held up four men and slightly wounded two men and a woman.

WILL OPEN OFFICE HERE

C. H. Crockard, who lived in Bismarck for ten years, being associated with S. H. Clark in the publication of Jim Jam Jems, was in the city today and announced his intention of opening an office soon for the purpose of conducting a trade stimulation and advertising business in North Dakota, with Bismarck as his headquarters. Mr. Crockard will deal chiefly with the smaller towns in the state. Recently he has been in Minneapolis.

MANITOBA AND IOWA BOTH ARE HIT BY STORMS

Further Widespread Damage Is Indicated to Crops in Canadian Province

IOWA CORN DAMAGED

Storm-Ridden State Suffers Heavy Losses, Making Outlook on Crops Gloomy

Winnipeg, Canada, Aug. 20.—(By the A. P.)—Further widespread damage to Manitoba's grain crop was indicated in meager reports today of the havoc wrought by the severe electrical storms which have swept the province the past two days.

Ten thousand acres in the Fox Warren district were reported to have suffered an 80 per cent crop damage by furious hail storms, accompanied by torrential rains and a violent wind.

In the Carberry district 4,000 acres were reported to have paid heavy tribute to the elements, while a 35 per cent crop loss was indicated over a considerable area near Brookdale.

REPAIR DAMAGE

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 20.—Storm-ridden Iowa once more attempted to repair the damage caused by a severe rain storm in the eastern part of the state which late Sunday and Tuesday resulted in the loss of three lives, hundreds of cattle and horses, thousands of dollars in crop damage, and flooded homes and farmlands.

As a result of Monday's storm coupled with several other rain and wind storms during the past month, the Iowa corn crop outlook was gloomy.

Charles D. Reed, director of the Iowa weather and crop bureau, and that "only through a weather miracle could there be more than half a crop harvested."

In the Wapsipinicon, Cedar and Big Creek river valleys, cattle were swept into the torrents and it was through their efforts to save cattle that had been stranded in high water that J. N. Schley and De Claude Barrett of Bertram lost their lives.

FLIERS AGAIN ARE HALTED

Bad Weather Prevents Expected Hop-off Today

Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 20.—(By the A. P.)—The American around the world fliers had made preparations to start this morning on their long hop to Fredericksdal, near Cape Farewell, east of Greenland, but unfavorable weather conditions again forced them to abandon their intention. A sale delayed the arrival here of the United States Cruiser Richmond, which is bringing spare parts with which the two machines can be repaired.

The Richmond, which was to have arrived here at 4:30 o'clock this morning, will not arrive until 9 o'clock and the necessary repairs to the planes will take at least two hours.

Realizing the probable delay in the arrival of the Richmond, Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder had made preparations for sending the planes to Reykjavik by means of scout airplanes on board the cruiser but the plan was abandoned because a heavy gale was blowing there this morning and because of uncertainty regarding the landing of the scout plane.

The Richmond arrived at 9:04 o'clock this morning and spare parts for the damaged airplanes were immediately brought ashore. The fliers will not leave today because of the stormy sea. It is uncertain when the Richmond will depart.

START TOMORROW

Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 20.—The American around the world fliers and Lieut. Locatelli, Italian aviator, who will accompany them on their flight to the North American continent, will take off on the long hop to Fredericksdal, near Cape Farewell, east of Greenland, at 3 o'clock tomorrow morning. It was decided today. The decision was made this morning at a conference on board the U. S. Cruiser Richmond between Rear Admiral Thomas Magruder, Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, commander of the round the world fliers, and Lieut. Locatelli.

RESIDENTS OF SMALL MINNESOTA VILLAGE BATTLE BANDITS, DRIVE THEM OFF AFTER BLOWING OF SAFE

Richfield, Minn., Aug. 20.—Taking advantage of an enveloping fog early today three bandits attempted to rob the First State Bank at Cosmos, a small town 18 miles south of here, but abandoned the task after an exchange of shots with residents who had been awakened by the explosion set off in an attempt to open the money safe.

Expanding two charges of nitroglycerine, the bandits ripped the door from the lower compartment of the safe but failed to open the money chamber. They fled with nothing for their pains.

The explosion aroused Emil Hackbart, who lives opposite the bank building, and he obtained his revolver and fired two shots at the men, neither of which apparently took effect. As Hackbart stepped back into his house, the bandits returned the fire, sending eight bullets into his home, two of which narrowly missed him. Meanwhile the firing had aroused others of the town's 125 population and when lights began to appear in a dozen or more nearby houses, the bandits with a departing volley of shots, fled in their automobile.

CALLS SPECIAL ELECTION FOR CONGRESSMAN

Governor Issues Proclamation For Vote in Second Congressional District

TO BE HELD NOV. 4

A proclamation calling a special election in the Second Congressional District on November 4 the same day as the general fall election to choose a successor to George M. Young, resigned, was issued today by Governor R. A. Nestos. Representative Young has resigned, effective September 2, to accept a place as judge of the United States Court of Claims. His regular term would expire next March 4.

The proclamation of the Governor follows:

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, the Honorable George M. Young, representative in Congress from the second congressional district of the state of North Dakota, has filed his resignation to take effect September 2, 1924.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, R. A. Nestos, Governor of the state of North Dakota, do hereby proclaim and call a special election to be held on Tuesday, November 4, 1924, simultaneously with the general election, in each precinct in each of the counties comprising the second congressional district of the state of North Dakota, for the election of a representative in Congress to fill out the unexpired term of the said George M. Young.

The nominations of candidates to be voted for in said special election shall be made either by petition or by convention, under the provisions of Section 501 of the Political Code of 1899.

Let the public and all election officials in the second congressional district take due notice and act accordingly.

Dated at the capital in Bismarck, this 20th day of August, A. D. 1924, and given under my hand and the Great Seal of the state of North Dakota.

R. A. Nestos, Governor.

Thomas Hall, Secretary of State and Republican nominee for Congress in this district, said today he also would be a candidate for the unexpired term. Gerald Voe of Cooperstown, endorsed by Nonpartisans for the office, also has announced he would be a candidate for the short term.

ANTI-SMOKES LEADER DIES

Lucy Page Gaston Was Foe of Cigarettes

Chicago, Aug. 20.—(By the A. P.)—Miss Lucy Page Gaston, founder of the National Anti-Cigarette League, died today in a Hinsdale hospital.

Miss Gaston was injured in a street car accident several months ago. Physicians were uncertain to what extent her injuries contributed to her death. She was conscious until a half-hour before death, physicians said.

Undaunted by ridicule which Miss Gaston received, she was the arch enemy of tobacco for more than a quarter of a century.

In spite of her admission that smoking among women and minors was on the increase, she continued her efforts. She sent a letter to the late President Harding asking him to quit smoking cigarettes, and asked other dignitaries to do the same. During the war, when relatives were supplying soldiers with cigarettes, she never relaxed her efforts, even in the name of patriotism.

She was an associate of the late Francis Willard, she had edited the Citizen, published at Harvey, Ill., and later the Boy Patriot, among reform journals. Her aggressive spirit sometime appeared in clashes within her organization. When the Kansas branch of the national Anti-Cigarette League objected to the publication of a magazine there she resigned as president of the league, but her resignation was not accepted.

GITLOW WILL SPEAK IN CITY

Benjamin Gitlow, candidate of the Workers' Party for vice-president, will deliver campaign speeches in Fargo, October 10 and in Bismarck October 11, according to word received here.

Mr. Gitlow, the running mate of W. Z. Foster, will come here from Minneapolis and St. Paul. From Bismarck he will go to Omaha, Nebraska.

WHEAT INCOME IN N. D. RISES $15,000,000

This Excess Over 1923 Is Estimated by Wheat Growers Head on Estimates

Grand Forks, Aug. 20.—With an estimated increase in the wheat crop over last year to 50 million bushels, and prices about 30 cents higher, the farmers in North Dakota stand to increase their income on wheat alone approximately $15,000,000. This statement was made by Geo. E. Duis, president of the North Dakota Wheat Growers Association.

"Rye prices have gained 10 cents a bushel since June 19, and North Dakota boasts one of the highest rye crops in years; oats have increased in price in like manner, which will also add to the wealth of the farmers in this state," Mr. Duis declared.

"The North Dakota Wheat Growers Association will likely handle about 25 million bushels of wheat this year, and if present prices are maintained, and there are indications that they will go still higher, our members will gain over 7 million dollars over what they received for their last year's crop. This increase in price is due, not only to a short wheat crop throughout the world, but due to the strength of the wheat pool and the disposition of farmers to market their wheat in an orderly manner," he asserted.

"This increased income of North Dakota farmers is largely velvet, for the 1924 crop was planted at a minimum expense, the farmers cutting down their overhead in every way, hiring very little help, getting along with old machinery, and otherwise cutting corners."

SCOTCH WHISKY IS SEIZED

Aberdeen, S. D., Aug. 20.—Two consignments of scotch whisky, wrapped in the original straw wrappings as delivered from rum runners, were seized here by general prohibition agent, Lane Maloney. They were sent by a fictitious consignee in New York to a fictitious consignee in Aberdeen, care of a local hotel. The first shipment was traced out through Soon after it was delivered by the express company the seizure was made. This afternoon a second like shipment of 48 quarts was tendered for delivery, refused by the hotel and seized by Maloney. The liquor was poured into the sewer at the police station. Arrests will follow, the agent states.

PHILOSOPHY IS NOT A DEFENSE ASSERTS STATE

First Lawyer For Prosecution Cites Riot and Communist Cases to Court

CITES THE COLD LAW

Reads Passages Defining What Crimes Shall be Followed by Death Penalty

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Two of the three high crimes for which Illinois provides the death penalty—murder, rape and kidnapping—were committed by Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb in a manner justifying nothing less than death on the gallows, Thomas Marshall, assistant state attorney, told Judge John R. Caverly today.

He urged the extreme penalty in an argument based upon the phraseology of the Illinois laws and the formal charges connected with the kidnapping and murder of Robert Franks, to which the defendants have pleaded guilty.

Judge Caverly opened a book of law and followed the law as Mr. Marshall read the cold, hard phrases defining murder and kidnapping as capital crimes in this state. The phrase "shall suffer the penalty of death" was always brought out in a voice raised in tone and emphasis in its deliberateness.

Defendants Calm

The defendants gave no visible sign that the "phrase," death penalty had been heard by them. They seemed more interested in the notes being made by Clarence Darrow and his associate counsel for the defense.

The Attorney ridiculed the defense attempt to show mitigation of punishment by the testimony of mental experts.

"No philosophy is an excuse for crime," was Mr. Marshall's text on that point, and he worked it out by drawing parallels between Leopold and Loeb's beliefs in their own power and the philosophies of anarchists, communists and Mormons who were convicted of violating the laws of the land despite reliance on their convictions as justification for their acts.

The Super-Man Theory

The assistant prosecutor started with a reference to defense testimony that Leopold considered himself a super-man.

"So did the Chicago anarchists of 35 years ago, consider themselves super-men," said Mr. Marshall. "They sought to destroy the law with dynamite. These men would destroy it by other means but on similar philosophical grounds."

He read from the record of the Haymarket riot trials and drew a parallel between speeches by Parsons, Spies and their associates and the ideas of the defendants.

"The philosophy here is that the law has no application," said Mr. Marshall. "The anarchists were executed by the law that they damned, not for their philosophy but for their violation of law."

Other Cases

Mr. Marshall, in a similar vein, discussed the murder of a communist, a case in which the millionaire Lloyd was the central figure.

"Upon what theory can it be said that the views of Leopold Jr., since they do not protect him from the consequences of his act, can be urged in mitigation of his crime?" asked Mr. Marshall.

The findings of the supreme court of the United States in the polygamy cases were referred to in another case in which a philosophy was disregarded by the court in plea for mitigation.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—The long legal battle in which the state demands death and the defense imprisonment as the penalty for Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, co-murderers of Robert Franks, today had reached the stage of final argument.

Pursuing the same objective that it did in its testimony the prosecution in its opening salvo of oratory has declared that only the gallows would expiate the crime to which the youths, millionaires' sons and university graduate students, have pleaded guilty. For the next two days state attorneys will reiterate the demand in their arguments.

Mitigation of punishment, which throughout has been the plea of the defense, based on a theory of mental sickness caused by functional disorders of the endocrine glands, childish phantasies and deficient emotions, will be argued by Walter and Benjamin Bacharach and Clarence Darrow, defense counsel, in the three days they plan to use. Then Robert E. Crowe, state attorney, will take 2 or 3 hours in the final effort to induce Judge John R. Caverly to impose a capital sentence.

The Republican party, he said, stands firmly for the constitution. "Opposed to it," he said, "though the result may be to deadlock the presidency and make Bryanism succeed the Coolidge policy, is a movement of untried and dangerous radicalism." He said this movement had a platform of "anarchy and chaos" designed to "soften" apprehension as to what the movement really means.

He read a statement that "The Socialist Party formally enrolled under the LaFollette banner," and another quoting Eugene V. SCHOOL BOARD'S NON-RESIDENT VIEWS GIVEN

Will Care For All Outside

Tuition Fee to Continue the Same as in the Past, It Is Announced

The city board of education will accommodate all the non-resident pupils it has facilities and money to accommodate, in the high school during the coming year, it is announced by the board. This is announced by the board in rescinding a resolution to raise the tuition fee in the high school from $54 to $108 per year per pupil. The actual cost to the city board of caring for a non-resident pupil is charge, while in Williston $94 per year is charged non-resident pupils. The local board also sought opinions from Alfred Zuger and the Attorney-General's office, which were to the effect that $54 is the maximum legal rate which may be charged.

The Bismarck High School, however, cannot accommodate all pupils of the city of Bismarck and outside the city who desire to attend. The high school was built for but 300 students, and last year, according to board members, the attendance was so large that freshmen could not be seated in the assembly room.

Position of Board

The position of the board is outlined to parents of non-resident pupils in a letter of Superintendent H. O. Saxvik, as follows:

Dear Parents:

Owing to the tax limitation law and the mounting cost of maintaining our schools, The Bismarck Board of Education finds it impossible to furnish building and equipment sufficient to accommodate all non-resident students who would like to enter our High School and Grades. The Board has contemplated an advance in the high school tuition fee but is advised by its attorney that the legal rate of $54.00 per year is all that may be charged, and the tuition has accordingly been fixed at that sum.

In addition to the above tuition there will be an annual laboratory fee of $5.00 in all sciences and a similar fee for work in the commercial department. These fees apply to all students, whether resident or not. Each non-resident student must present at time of enrollment a certificate from the district board that the board recognizes its liability for the $54.00 tuition fee and will pay it. Unless this certificate is furnished the student's parents must assume liability for the amount.

We shall accommodate all possible non-resident students but shall have to draw the line when the limit of equipment and room is reached.

Cost of Pupils

During the past year the cost of maintaining our high school was approximately $120,000 per student and it cost us approximately $65.00 for each grade pupil. Non-resident pupils last year cost us more than $10,000.00 over and above the tuition that we were able to collect. We would gladly stand this loss if the laws would permit us to levy sufficient taxes to meet it. There has never been a disposition on the part of the Board to discourage or prevent non-residents from entering our schools. We have always been glad to accommodate them. They have been an asset to our schools but it has become a matter of self-protection and

WHEELER COMES BACK

Washington, Aug. 20.—Senator LaFollette, independent candidate for President, apparently had been released today of the likelihood of the necessity to resign his office by the statement in New York last night by Warren S. Stone, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, denying that he had resigned as treasurer of campaign funds solicited from labor organizations and their members.

Reports that Mr. Stone was preparing to resign the task assigned him in the independent organization were accompanied by intimations of differences and some talk of a split, but the latter was denied on all sides.

Senator Wheeler, Mr. LaFollette's running mate, traveling by automobile from the Massachusetts South Shore where he spent three weeks with his family sent word yesterday that he expected to be to Capitol today ready for the conference with the leaders and their advisers to round out the campaign plans. The financial as well as speech-making and other activities which are to begin tomorrow.

WEATHER FORECASTS

For Bismarck and vicinity: Showers probable this afternoon or tonight. Thursday partly cloudy.

For North Dakota: Showers probable this afternoon or tonight; warmer southeast portion. Thursday partly cloudy.

GENERAL WEATHER CONDITIONS

A low pressure area extends in a trough along the eastern Rocky Mountain slope and precipitation occurred from the northern Rocky Mountain region westward to the Pacific Coast. Precipitation also occurred in the upper Mississippi Valley and Great Lakes region. Higher temperatures prevail in the Great Lakes region and along the eastern Rocky Mountain slope while cooler weather is general west of the Rockies.

North Dakota Corn and Wheat

Region Summary

For the week ending Aug. 19, 1924: The weather during the week was favorable for harvesting and threshing, but mostly too cool and cloudy for corn. The spring wheat harvest is well advanced and some late sown is being out early on account of black stem rust. Rye and barley threshing is well under way with generally good results. Flax is good to excellent and ripening; some of the late sown needs rain. Pastures and ranges also need rain in some sections.

SEVERE STORM CARRIES HAIL WITH IT TODAY

Report Received From Timmer
That Hail Does Much Damage Around There

RAIN HERE IS HEAVY

A severe electrical and rain storm, which struck Bismarck about two o'clock this afternoon also brought a trace of hail to the city with it. It is believed heavy hail damage was done in some places.

A half-inch of rain fell in Bismarck within a period of about a half an hour, before 2:30 p. m., with likelihood of rain still falling. It appeared, according to weather observers, that the storm which came from the southwest, went on east toward Jamestown, covering a wide territory.

The Northern Pacific railroad received a report from Timmer, in southern Morton county near the Missouri river, that a heavy hail storm did great damage there.

The storm appears to be working east, according to reports received by the Soo railroad. It began raining at Wilton at 3:15, but rain is reported at no other place north of here, although rain is reported across the river. Rain is falling between here and Wishek.

A light hail is reported at Kinetyre; the amount of damage done was not known.

KID M'CROY TO FACE CHARGES OF GRAND JURY

Ex-Pugilist Is Indicted For Three Separate Offenses
By Grand Jury

Los Angeles, Aug. 20.—When Kid McCoy, former pugilist, was arraigned in superior court here today, and the indictment was read to him charging him with the murder of Theresa Mors his eyes flashed and he cried: "I did not."

His formal plea was postponed until next Monday.

Realizing the probable delay in the arrival of the Richmond, Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder had made preparations for sending the material with which to repair the planes to Reykjavik by means of scout airplanes on board the cruiser but the planes were blown there this morning and because of uncertainty regarding the landing of the scout plane.

The Richmond arrived at 9:04 o'clock this morning and spare parts for the damaged airplanes were immediately brought ashore. The fliers will not leave today because of the strong gale. It is uncertain when the Richmond will depart.

WILL OPEN OFFICE HERE

C. H. Crookard, who lived in Bismarck for ten years, being associated with S. H. Clark in the publication of Jim Jam Jams, was in the city today and announced his intention of opening an office soon for the purpose of conducting a trade stimulation and advertising business in North Dakota, with Bismarck as his headquarters. Mr. Crookard will deal chiefly with the smaller towns in the state. Recently he has been in Minneapolis.

MANITOBA AND IOWA BOTH ARE HIT BY STORMS

Further Widespread Damage
Is Indicated to Crops in Canadian Province

IOWA CORN DAMAGED

Storm-Ridden State Suffers
Heavy Losses, Making Outlook on Crops Gloomy

Winnipeg, Canada, Aug. 20.—(By the A. P.)—Further widespread damage to Manitoba's grain crop was indicated in meager reports today of the havoc wrought by the severe electrical storms which have swept the province the past two days.

Ten thousand acres in the Fox Warren district were reported to have suffered an 80 per cent crop damage by furious hail storms, accompanied by torrential rains and a violent wind.

In the Carberry district 4,000 acres were reported to have paid heavy tribute to the elements, while a 35 per cent crop loss was indicated over a considerable area near Brookdale.

REPAIR DAMAGE

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 20.—Storm-ridden Iowa once more attempted to repair the damage caused by a severe rain storm in the eastern part of the state which late Sunday and Tuesday resulted in the loss of three lives, hundreds of cattle and horses, thousands of dollars in crop damage, and flooded homes and farmlands.

As a result of Monday's storm coupled with several other rain and wind storms during the past month, the outlook for the crop was declared "the gloomiest in 35 years," by Charles D. Reed, director of the Iowa weather and crop bureau, and that "only through a weather miracle could there be more than half a crop harvested."

Lightning Kills Girl

Elizabeth Smith, aged 12, living near Keokuk, was the third victim. She was killed by lightning.

Every section of the storm swept area sent reports of rising rivers and creeks. At Dubuque, the Mississippi rose perceptibly within an hour after the storm.

FLIERS AGAIN ARE HALTED

Bad Weather Prevents Expected Hop-off Today

Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 20.—(By the A. P.)—The American around the world fliers had made preparations to start this morning on their long hop to Fredericksdal, near Cape Farewell, east of Greenland, but unfavorable weather conditions again forced them to abandon their intention. A gale delayed the arrival here of the United States Cruiser Richmond, which is bringing spare parts with which the two machines can be repaired.

The Richmond, which was to have arrived here at 4:30 o'clock this morning, will not arrive until 9 o'clock and the necessary repairs to the planes will take at least two hours.

Realizing the probable delay in the arrival of the Richmond, Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder had made preparations for sending the material with which to repair the planes to Reykjavik by means of scout airplanes on board the cruiser but the planes were blown there this morning and because of uncertainty regarding the landing of the scout plane.

The Richmond arrived at 9:04 o'clock this morning and spare parts for the damaged airplanes were immediately brought ashore. The fliers will not leave today because of the strong gale. It is uncertain when the Richmond will depart.

START TOMORROW

Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 20.—The American around the world fliers and Lieut. Locatelli, Italian aviator, who will accompany them on their flight to the North American continent, will take off on the long hop to Fredericksdal, near Cape Farewell, east Greenland, at 3 o'clock tomorrow morning, it was decided today. The decision was made this morning at a conference on board the U. S. Cruiser Richmond between Rear Admiral Thomas Magruder, Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, commander of the round the world fliers, and Lieut. Locatelli.

RESIDENTS OF SMALL MINNESOTA VILLAGE BATTLE BANDITS, DRIVE THEM OFF AFTER BLOWING OF SAFE

Richfield, Minn., Aug. 20.—Taking advantage of an enveloping fog early today three bandits attempted to rob the First State Bank at Cosmos, a small town 18 miles south of here, but abandoned the task after an exchange of shots with residents who had been awakened by the explosion set off in an attempt to open the money safe.

Expanding two charges of nitroglycerine, the bandits ripped the door from the lower compartment of the safe but failed to open the money chamber. They fled with nothing for their pains.

The explosion aroused Emil Hackbert, who lives opposite the bank building, and he obtained his revolver and fired two shots at the men, neither of which apparently took effect. As Hackbert stepped back into his house, the bandits returned the fire, sending eight bullets into his home, two of which narrowly missed him. Meanwhile the firing had aroused others of the town's 125 population and when lights began to appear in a dozen or more nearby houses, the bandits with a departing volley of shots, fled in their automobile.

CALLS SPECIAL ELECTION FOR CONGRESSMAN

Governor Issues Proclamation
For Vote in Second Congressional District

TO BE HELD NOV. 4

A proclamation calling a special election in the Second Congressional District on November 4, the same day as the general fall election—to choose a successor to George M. Young, resigned, was issued today by Governor R. A. Nestos. Representative Young has resigned, effective September 2, to accept a place as judge of the United States Court of Claims. His regular term would expire next March 4.

The proclamation of the Governor follows:

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, the Honorable George M. Young, representative in Congress from the second congressional district of the state of North Dakota, has filed his resignation to take effect September 2, 1924.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, R. A. Nestos, Governor of the state of North Dakota, do hereby proclaim and call a special election to be held on Tuesday, November 4, 1924, simultaneously with the general election, in each precinct in each of the counties comprising the second congressional district of the state of North Dakota, for the election of a representative in Congress to fill out the unexpired term of the said George M. Young.

The nominations of candidates to be voted for in said special election shall be made either by petition or by convention, under the provisions of Section 501 of the Political Code of 1899.

Let the public and all election officials in the second congressional district take due notice and act accordingly.

Dated at the capital in Bismarck this 20th day of August, A. D. 1924, and given under my hand and the Great Seal of the state of North Dakota.

R. A. Nestos, Governor.

Thomas Hall, Secretary of State, and Republican nominee for Congress in this district, said today he also would be a candidate for the unexpired term. Gerald Nye of Coopers-town, endorsed by Nonpartisans for the office, also has announced he would be a candidate for the short term.

ANTI-SMOKES LEADER DIES

Lucy Page Gaston Was Foe of Cigarettes

Chicago, Aug. 20.—(By the A. P.)—Miss Lucy Page Gaston, founder of the National Anti-Cigarette League, died today in a Hinsdale hospital.

Miss Gaston was injured in a street car accident several months ago. Physicians were unable to retain to what extent her injuries contributed to her death. She was conscious until a half-hour before death, physicians said.

Undaunted by ridicule which Miss Gaston received, she was the arch enemy of tobacco for more than a quarter of a century.

In spite of her admission that smoking among women and boys was on the increase, she continued her efforts. She sent a letter to the late President Harding asking him to quit smoking cigarettes, and asking other dignitaries to do the same. During the war, when relatives among supplying soldiers with cigarettes, she never relaxed her efforts, even in the name of patriotism.

She was an associate of the late Francis Willard, she had edited the Francis, published at Harvey, Ill., and later the Boy Patriot, among reform journals. Her aggressive spirit sometime appeared in clashes within her organization. When the Kansas branch of the national anti-cigarette league objected to the publication of a magazine there she resigned as president of the league, but her resignation was not accepted.

PHILOSOPHY IS NOT A DEFENSE ASSERTS STATE

First Lawyer For Prosecution Cites Riot and Communist Cases to Court

CITES THE COLD LAW

Reads Passages Defining
What Crimes Shall be Followed by Death Penalty

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Two of the three high crimes for which Illinois provides the death penalty—murder, rape and kidnapping—were committed by Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, a manner justifying nothing less than death on the gallows, Thomas Marshall, assistant state attorney, told Judge John R. Caverly today.

He urged the extreme penalty in an argument based upon the phraseology of the Illinois laws and the formal charges connected with the kidnapping and murder of Robert Franks, to which the defendants have pleaded guilty.

Judge Caverly opened a book of law and followed the law as Mr. Marshall read the cold, hard phrases defining murder and kidnapping as capital crimes in this state. The phrase "shall suffer the penalty of death" was always brought out in a voice raised in tone and emphasis in its deliberateness.

Defendants Calm

The defendants gave no visible sign that the "brass" death penalty had been heard by them. They seemed more interested in the notes being made by Clarence Darrow and his associate counsel for the defense.

The Attorney ridiculed the defense attempt to show mitigation of punishment by the testimony of mental experts.

"No philosophy is an excuse for crime," was Mr. Marshall's text on that point, and he worked it out by drawing parallels between Leopold and Loeb's beliefs in their own power and the philosophies of anarchists, communists and Mormons who were convicted of violating the laws of the land despite reliance on their convictions as justification for the acts.

The Super-Man Theory

The assistant prosecutor started with a reference to the famous testimony that Leopold considered himself a super-man.

"So did the Chicago anarchists of 35 years ago consider themselves super-men," said Mr. Marshall. "They sought to destroy the law with dynamite. These men would destroy it by other means but on similar philosophical grounds."

He read from the record of the Haymarket riot trials and drew a parallel between speeches by Parsons, Spies and their associates and the ideas of the defendants.

"The philosophy here is that the law has no application," said Mr. Marshall. "The anarchists were executed by the law that they damned, not for their philosophy but for their violation of law."

Other Cases

Mr. Marshall, in a similar vein, discussed the more recent communist cases in which the millionaire Lloyd was the central figure.

"Upon what theory can it be said that the views of Leopold Jr., since they do not protect him from the consequences of his acts, are urged in mitigation of his crime?" asked Mr. Marshall.

The findings of the supreme court of the United States in the polygamy cases were referred to in another case in which a philosophy was disregarded by the court in plea for mitigation.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—The long legal battle in which the state demands death and the defense imprisonment as the penalty for Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, co-murderers of Robert Franks, today had reached the stage of final argument.

Pursuing the same objective that it did in its testimony the prosecution in its opening salvo of oratory has declared that only the gallows would expiate the crime to which the youths, millionaires' sons and university graduate students, have pleaded guilty. For the next two days state attorneys will reiterate the demand in their arguments.

Mitigation of punishment, which throughout has been the plea of the defense, based on a theory of mental sickness and by functional disorders of the endocrine glands, childish phantasies and deficient emotions, will be argued by Walter and Benjamin Bacharach and Clarence Darrow, defense counsel, in the three days they plan to use. Then Robert E. Crowe, state attorney, will take 2 or 3 hours in the final effort to induce Judge John R. Caverly to impose a capital sentence.

WHEELER TO START FIGHT

Washington, Aug. 20.—Active campaigning in behalf of the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket probably will begin on Labor Day with an open air address on the Boston Commons by Senator Wheeler of Montana.

SCOTCH WHISKY IS SEIZED

Aberdeen, S. D., Aug. 20.—Two consignments of scotch whisky, wrapped in the original straw wrappings as delivered from rum row, were seized here by general prohibition agent, Lane Maloney. They were sent by a fictitious consignee in New York to a fictitious consignee in Aberdeen, care of a local hotel. The first shipment was traced out of New York and prohibition agents accompanied the shipment through. Soon after it was delivered by the express company the seizure was made. This afternoon a second like shipment of 48 quarts was tendered for delivery, refused by the hotel and seized by Maloney. The liquor was poured into the sewer at the police station. Arrests will follow, the agent states.

N. D. TEACHERS BOARD MEETS

The board of trustees of the Teachers Insurance and Retirement Fund are holding a session here, with P. S. Berg of Dickinson, R. M. Black of Ellendale, State Treasurer John Steen and Miss Minnie J. Nielson present. Mr. Beatrice Johnston of Grand Forks was unable to be here.

INDEPENDENTS COURSE IS YET TO BE DECIDED

Democrats Name Committee
To Report to the State
Committee Meeting

Action by the joint committee representing Republicans, Democrats and the I. V. A., toward putting an independent ticket in the field in the fall election, appeared uncertain today, according to J. F. Burke of Bismarck, member of the committee. He was awaiting a call from Fargo in regard to the matter.

The Democratic conference held in Fargo Saturday named V. R. Lovell of Fargo, J. W. McIlwaine of Fargo and J. M. Kelly of Devils Lake as Democratic representatives on the general committee, but the committee was authorized only to report to the state committee at the regularly set time for the organization of the Democratic committee in Bismarck on September 3.

The La Follette conference here Saturday also failed to take action definitely leading to withdrawal of La Follette men from the Republican electoral ticket, and the question of confidence electors also remains undecided. It is probable, under the circumstances, that the question of the independent program cannot be settled until September 1 or thereafter.

BOYS VACATION IS LONG TOUR

Party of Six Pittsburgh Lads
Stops in City

Six Pittsburgh boys are enjoying a real vacation.

The party, which has been touring the country since school ended in June, stopped in Bismarck last night. The boys are on their way east and will arrive in Pittsburgh about September 1.

Prof. H. J. Clevenger, instructor in the Arnold school, a private secondary school in Pittsburgh, is in charge. of the party of boys, ranging from 15 to 18 years in age, consisting of James P. Sullivan, Harry A. Fenner, Thomas Fitzgerald Jr., Frank R. Liggett Jr., Geo. R. Achesson Jr., Edwin E. Sleek Jr.

They left Pittsburgh for the Pacific Coast by the southern route, following the Santa Fe trail by auto through Arizona and New Mexico, visited the Grand Canyon, "did" California went into Canada, traveled over the Columbia River Highway and then took the National Parks Highway back through Bismarck.

WILL REMARK PARKS ROAD

Car Leaves Bismarck Today
For the West

Remarking of the National Parks Highway (Red Trail) from Bismarck westward started today by Roy Arnston, sent out by A. W. Tracy, general manager of the National Parks Highway Association. Arnston is expected to reach Helena and Missoula, Montana in the morning in September. Plans also are being made to carry the remarking of the trail east from Bismarck, Mr. Tracy said.

Metal signs with the characteristic National Parks Highway designation will be placed where necessary by Arnston, old signs retouched and painted and poles repaired. He also will erect some large signs in Montana, similar to those at Fallor and Terry, where the National Parks Highway Yellowstone Trail meet, the object being to encourage travel over the Red Trail.

RICHARDSON WOMAN DIES
Richardson, N. D., Aug. 19.—Mrs. Marianna Hatzenduehler, for 20 years a resident of this village, died here last Tuesday, after a long illness. She was born in Cuz, South Russia, 60 years ago, where she lived until coming to Richardson. Besides her husband she is survived by a daughter and a brother.

NEW GRAIN SHIPPED
Jamestown, N. D., Aug. 19.—The first carload of new grain from near Cleveland was shipped from that station yesterday, and it is reported that this is the first new grain to be shipped from a station on the Northern division. The carload was rye, which weighed 31 1/2 bushels to the bushel, and weighed 50 pounds to the bushel.

URGE 5,000 ATTEND 'AUTO DAY' IN CITY

Crowd Expected by Advertising Club at Next Market Day Celebration

PLANS ARE ANNOUNCED

Saturday, August 30, will probably see one of the biggest crowds there has ever been in Bismarck. Over 5,000 invitations are being sent out in every car owner's with a radius of thirty miles or so of here. All contests and the parade will be open to every make of car on the market. There will be the biggest automobile parade ever held in the city, hundreds of cars are expected in line with two hands. Among other features will be an old style car with the occupants dressed in the styles of fifteen years ago, to be followed by a car of the latest type and model in order to show the progress made in the automobile industry in recent years.

After the parade Curtis Dirlam and his clown band will be on the streets to make more music for everyone. There will be something doing every minute from half past one till six. There will be several different contests in connection with the driving and repairing of cars and prizes will be awarded those who are the best and quickest. One of the novel contests will be a test driving stunt for automobiles, where a car will be made to teeter back and forth like kids on a plank. If anyone thinks he can walk a chalk mark straight, let him try it. He will be given a chance to do it.

Changing Tires
Practice up on changing tires. Prizes will be given men and women who can do it the quickest and if you think you can back up a car in a straight line, try that also. Prizes will be given those who can back the straightest as well as to those who can stop their cars the most accurately and the closest to a given mark. There will also be a driving contest for both men and women, along the same lines as that of last month, only it will be better arranged.

Be sure and bring all your family with you as prizes will be given for the largest family in attendance as well as for the oldest person and for the youngest baby, besides a prize for the family coming the longest distance. Be sure and drive in that old car as prizes will be given for the oldest car and for the most dilapidated one of any make. Be sure and decorate your cars, also, with flags, bunting, pins, anything, as a prize will be given for the best decorated car in the parade. The parade and contests are open to cars of any make, no matter what kind.

Be sure and bring the kids with you, they will have a good time, too. Lollypops and toy balloons will be given away during the parade, thousands of lollypops and hundreds of toy balloons. There will not be a full or sizeable crowd all afternoon. Parade, contests, music, movie shows, swimming pool, will all go to make a crowded afternoon for everyone.

N. D. LEGION TO SWARM ST. PAUL AT CONVENTION

"North Dakota Is Our Home"
Is Song Legionnaires
Will Sing

PLANS ARE ANNOUNCED

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 19.—The North Dakota Legion is taking advantage of the opportunity, when their national convention is so close to home, of sending the largest delegation which they have ever sent to any national convention, to the National convention which is to be held at St. Paul, Minnesota, September 16th, 19th inclusive, according to statement made by Walter G. Curtis of Lisbon, chairman of the Transportation Committee of the North Dakota Legion.

"North Dakota Is Our Home" is the song that every Legionnaire will be singing. "North Dakota is our home" is the slogan that appears on the large buttons which every Legionnaire from this state will be wearing. The Legionnaires of the state are determined that before the convention is over "North Dakota is our home" will be as familiar as the Iowa Corn song.

The North Dakota boys will not lack music. Plans have been completed for taking the Boy Scout Band of Devils Lake to the convention. The Harvey Jazz Band, a band composed entirely of Legion men, will also help make music for North Dakota. About one hundred posts have signified their intention of having Post colors in the parade. It is estimated that between two and three thousand North Dakota Legionnaires will be in attendance at this convention.

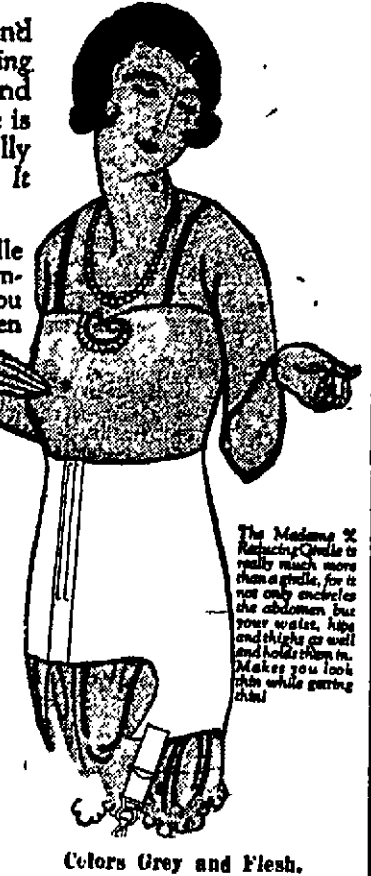

The regularly elected delegates are as follows: State Commander, A. B. Carlson, Minot, National Committeeman, Frank B. Streeter, Linton, National Committeeman, Fred A. Kraemer, Fargo, and State Adjutant, Jack Williams, Fargo. Local delegates: Dickinson, Gene Vandenberg, Grand Forks, H. S. Kreidler, Wahpeton, Edward Kibler, Cavalier, Martin Hennon, Mayville, A. K. Hovind, Bottineau, J. E. Mau, Enderlin, W. E. Cole, Bismarck, Harry Hart, Ray, A. L. Brandvik, Killdeer, Alternates elected are: L. B. Larson, Kindred, J. R. Lowell, Madocock, Otis Bryant, Napoleon, J. E. Rubel, Spiritwood, George M. Constance, Donnybrook, David Thoro, Reeder, Howard DeLong, Grand Forks, H. I. Turner, Heron, Ed. "Merchandise of Merit Only"

Saving 500 Million Dollars Annually

THE Oil and Gas Journal, of July 24, 1924, says: "Measured in terms of what is saved car and truck owners in the prices they must have paid for gasoline, if no cracking process had been in use, cracking saved the motorist last year probably $500,000,000."

"And this is the significance of cracking," continues this journal—"a significance that can be measured in dollars saved to the millions who call at the filling station for gasoline."

The entire business of cracking gasoline has been developed since January 7, 1913, when the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) was granted its first patent for what is known as the Burton Cracking Process.

In 1923 there was some 2000 cracking "units" in operation, of which about 1600 were Burton Process, and the remaining 400 scattered among other cracking processes of more recent origin.

During 1923 the 14 million cars and trucks used about 6,800,000,000 gallons of gasoline.

Despite the flood of crude oil, during 1923, there were but 4,950,000,000 gallons of straight run gasoline available for these 14 million cars and trucks.

Hence it is obvious that without the cracking process now so generally in use, gasoline prices would have been substantially higher than they were and one-fourth of these vehicles could not have been operated.

This clear, simple statement of facts, verified and set forth in a non-partisan manner in a keen review of the situation by Charles E. Bowles in the Oil and Gas Journal, is more convincing than a dozen arguments in proving the immense service which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has rendered the automobilist, by developing the Burton Cracking Process, and by inventing stills and other refining machinery to a point where there is practically no crude which cannot be treated and made to yield substantial quantities of good gasoline.

If the Oil and Gas Journal is correct in its figures, and we believe that they are conservative, the average saving per car was $35.72 for 1923—a saving essentially due to the progressive policy of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

APARTMENT BAN CALLED IN QUESTION

Proposal Is Prevented By City Zoning Ordinance as It Now Stands

The new city zoning ordinance came into question at the city commission meeting last night, when a report of the Board of Adjustment was presented, citing that the proposal of W. A. Hughes to build an apartment house on the corner of Seventh street and Avenue C conflicted with the zoning ordinance, which prohibits the building of apartment houses in "A" district.

Mr. Hughes appeared before the city commission to argue that the district ought to be changed, holding that his location and others in the district were proper locations for apartment houses. He had presented petitions from a number of property owners in the district holding there was no objection to the proposed apartment house.

Mr. Hughes said he proposed to build a three-story, four apartment house. The city zoning commission probably will be called in before the matter is disposed of.

An estimate of the city engineer of the cost of making new connections to White Wolf poles on Main street, in view of the plan of the Hughes Electric Company to take wooden poles off Main street, was presented, the cost being $732.37. This matter was carried over for a week.

A bid for putting in three blocks of water works mains in the eastern part of the city was presented by F. G. Grambs, the bid being lower than the city engineer's estimate. The commission had discussed putting in the work itself, using pipe the city has on hand. Mr. Grambs said he would purchase pipe from the city, and asserted he could do the work cheaper than the city. The matter was carried over, until the cost of some recent pipe laying done by the city is checked.

Uniform Flag Plan Adopted

Van Hook, N. D., Aug. 19.—Under the auspices of the American Legion post a new system of flag decoration will be inaugurated in Van Hook, steps having been taken to provide the necessary posts at once.

Posts about 12 feet tall will be placed in the cement walks about 8 inches from the outer edge and about 50 feet apart, at the top of which a flag 4x6 feet will be placed. The flag will be raised in these posts on all national days when the flag is required to be displayed and will be quite a novelty. The system is being used in the larger cities and is being taken up by the smaller towns as fast as the materials can be supplied.

Average full-time weekly earnings for men in the tire industry last year was $36.70.

TWO DIE IN IOWA FLOOD

Heavy Downpours Cause
Heavy Damage There

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Aug. 19.—Two farmers, J. M. Schallay, and Claude Barrett of Bettam, eight miles east of here, were swept away and are reported to have drowned by flood waters last evening while searching for cattle. A cloudburst late yesterday afternoon inundated several thousands of acres of farmland in this vicinity.

Reports reaching here indicate that the storm caused great damage to crops. Telephone and telegraph wires were swept away. Railroad tracks received from Vinton, Iowa, state that houses there and east to Marion, Iowa, also suffered heavy damage.

Farmers in the vicinity of Coggon, Linn county, report that much of their corn crop was washed away. At Reinbeck, Grundy county, six and one half inches of rain fell during the day.

County agents and farm experts say that the storm was the most destructive this summer.

A score or more of stranded motorists are reported to be stuck in the mud in the vicinity of Traer.

Represents State At Convention At Halifax

Gustav N. Livdahl will leave tonight for Halifax, Nova Scotia, where he will attend the international convention of the International Association of Industrial Accident Boards and Commissions. Mr. Livdahl will represent the North Dakota Workmen's Compensation bureau, and will be the only delegate present from the state.

The convention opens August 28, and will continue until August 29. Mr. Livdahl will join representatives from other foreign states at Chicago, and on the way to Halifax stops will be made at Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto, Montreal and Quebec. On the return trip the delegates will go by way of Boston and New York. Mr. Livdahl expects to be home about September 6. Delegates from all the states in the Union, and from all Canadian provinces will attend the convention.

MAKE LIQUOR HAULS IN MINOT

Minot, N. D., Aug. 19.—Week-end raids conducted by members of the federal prohibition enforcement unit in Minot, special deputies from other foreign states at Chicago, and on the way to Halifax stops will be made at Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto, Montreal and Quebec. On the return trip the delegates will go by way of Boston and New York. Mr. Livdahl expects to be home about September 6. Delegates from all the states in the Union, and from all Canadian provinces will attend the convention.

A visit Saturday night to the basement premises at 27 Central av. west, said to be conducted by John Anderson, resulted in the finding of one case of Canadian beer, the officers report. Federal agents were not included in the

MAID DOG LOOSE AT NAPOLEON

Napoleon, Aug. 19.—A dog which bit Gus Nelson, district manager of the North American Creamery company, and other Napoleon citizens, was found to have hydrophobia, according to an analysis of the dogs head made at the state laboratory. Mr. Nelson is taking the Pasteur treatment. All untamed dogs in the village have been ordered killed.

Miners' Journal Approves Monthly Coal Deliveries

Indianapolis, Aug. 19.—Elimination of the seasonal demand for coal would be "a blessing to the industry and to the public in general," says the United Mine Workers' Journal, official publication of the United Mine Workers of America. The statement was made in discussing the recommendation of the American Engineering Council that seasonal storage of coal would cut the public's coal bill, eliminate danger of coal famine and stabilize the industry.

The plan of having the public purchase its coal on annual contracts for yearly requirements with a provision that the coal be delivered monthly in equal allotments long has been advocated, the article points out, adding that under the present conditions 47 percent of the idle time of the industry is caused by the seasonal demand for fuel. It was suggested that the council's recommendation also might help solve the problems of too many mines and too many miners.

CRAIG, RELEASED, TO LOOK AFTER FLORIDA INTERESTS

Fargo, Aug. 19.—Ray W. Craig, former Lisbon banker, who was released Saturday from custody of the LaMoore county sheriff upon an order by District Judge J. E. Engert fixing and approving a concurrent bond, left LaMoore the same day. He informed court attaches he intended to return to Florida where he has business interests, pending outcome of action taken by his counsel looking toward a new trial on the charge of fourth degree forgery of which he was convicted at LaMoore and for which he was given two years in prison.

WOMAN IS APPOINTED SIOUX SUPERINTENDENT

Fort Yates, N. D., Aug. 19.—Miss E. Helen Irons of Morrisville, S. D., one of two candidates for the appointment, has been named by the county commission as superintendent of the Sioux county schools. She will fill the vacancy created by the death of the former incumbent, L. W. Colebank, who was fatally injured in an auto accident while motoring in Florida.

FARMER LEAPS INTO DITCH AFTER ADJUSTING NOOSE

Edinburg, N. D., Aug. 19.—Carl Johnson, bachelor farmer of near here, committed suicide by hanging, his act being attributed to worry over financial matters. The noose was fastened to the branch of a tree and he had evidently jumped into a ditch. His feet were found touching the ground and it was indicated that he had sagged into the noose until strangulation took place.

Girls! Whiten Skin With Lemon Juice

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug-gist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quart of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion—also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must

ALL WORN OUT So Was Mr. Pearce Who Tells His Experience.

Are you tired all the time; worn-out night and day? Does your back ache as if it would break? Do you suffer dizziness, headaches, rheumatic twinges or distressing urinary disorders? You have good cause, then, to be alarmed about your kidneys. Do as many of your townfolk recommend. Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. This Bismarck case is convincing:

Chas. L. Pearce, farmer, 320 Second St., says: "I used Doan's Pills when suffering from disordered kidneys and they gave good results. For a time I was so lame, I could hardly stoop down to get a bucket of water. I knew my kidneys required attention, so got a box of Doan's at Cowan's Drug Store and used them until my trouble disappeared. Whenever I have needed Doan's since, they have always brought the same good results."

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

TRAFFIC PROBLEM

Under the present system of parking, the Capitol Car Line is a menace to the safety of automobilists and pedestrians alike. Several plans for parking automobiles have been proposed but none adopted. It is impossible under usual traffic conditions for an automobile to pass the street car on lower Fourth and on Main street.

If parking arrangements are not corrected soon, an accident may force a change. Surely the city would be liable in case of an accident if the present parking system is allowed to continue. It is impossible to drive a car on either side of the street car between the line of automobiles projecting at various angles.

The situation is so patent that the police department should without delay force parallel parking in the three blocks in question. It should not be necessary for an accident to force such a change in the parking arrangements.

There may be objections to parallel parking on some of the streets, but parking that calls for backing out against the stream of traffic is being discarded in most cities. Certainly the parking arrangements can be improved in this city and make for greater safety in driving.

LAFOLLETTE'S SOLE AIM

Not even the most enthusiastic follower of Senator Robert M. LaFollette in his wildest moments of enthusiasm will admit that the Wisconsin senator can be elected president. The best his supporters hope to do is to throw the election into Congress and there through the manipulation incident to such an impasse, dictate the presidential choice. It is hoped also by the LaFollette bloc to use his candidacy to elect as many congressmen and senators of the so-called progressive school of thought as possible.

If a considerable bloc of voters who are normally republican in states of well known republican leanings, however, vote the LaFollette ticket, the tide is liable to turn in favor of the democrats. Such was the case in the memorable Bull Moose campaign, but of course political conditions are different today and probably it is not logical or safe to draw too close an analogy between the two situations.

Despite the deplorable oil scandals, it must be admitted that the republican administration is bringing the nation back to normalcy. There is evident an honest attempt to lower public expenditures and President Coolidge has demonstrated a type of leadership, safe and American to the very core. In his acceptance speech, he quietly answered critics concerning the oil leases by pointing to the fact that every legal agency was at work to protect the interests of the people and to punish the evil doer. Those who expected a demagogic spurge over this incident were disappointed of course. That is not the Coolidge type of public service nor the theory of common sense in government which he so tersely defined in his memorable address.

LaFollette's candidacy serves no public need nor has it been received as enthusiastically in centers where it promised at first to receive greatest support.

Voters of this state can best serve the nation and safeguard their own interests by supporting Coolidge.

SOUND PHILOSOPHY

Senator Cartwright of California has uttered some very salient truths in a number of his public addresses. Here are a few maxims that smack of the philosophy of Benjamin Franklin:

"You cannot make the short man tall by cutting off the legs of the tall man."

"I can't make my hair grow by trimming yours."

"You cannot make the poor man rich by making the rich man poor."

"What is handed down to us does us very little good; what we earn for ourselves helps us to get more."

"Every time we give a man something for nothing, we weaken his backbone. And if we do it often enough, we destroy his backbone and leave him nothing but a wish-bone."

"The more the state does for the man the less the man will do for himself."

"The less a man knows about his own business, the more he thinks he knows about the business of government."

"Pretended friendship has been the subterfuge of bunco-steerers from the beginning of time."

"Never take the advice of a failure. He will lead to failure."

"The true friend of labor is the man who by word and deed aids in establishing and maintaining conditions of steady employment."

"Had no one saved there would be no capital."

"The more capital we create and save, the more employment there will be, and the higher the general standard of living."

"Every man who works and saves is a capitalist."

"We have been agitating and legislating and regulating the business man out of business and the working man out of his job."

"And we thought we were reformers."

"From the beginning of time the mainspring of industry has been the hope of private profit."

"Employment comes only through the investment of capital."

"Idle dollars mean idle men."

BOOTLEG

A big submarine is reported to be landing German beer, Scotch whisky and French champagnes near Boston. New York has its rum-running airplanes.

The country is far from dry, but liquor is getting harder to get when the bootleg gentry have to resort to planes and submarines. These two inventions may shortly be the chief problems of the liquor sleuths. At any rate, you'll live to see police and criminals fight duels overhead in the air.

AN IMPORTANT MILESTONE PASSED

(Minneapolis Tribune)

Another important milestone has been passed. The heads of the interested governments have signed the protocol providing the means for putting the Dawes plan into effect. The outlook for European recovery is, as a result, brighter than it has been at any time within the past five years.

We should be careful not to jump to conclusions and assume that the matter is settled. The French Parliament must still give its endorsement to M. Herriot. The German Reichstag must still give its endorsement to Chancellor Marx. But, without attempting to minimize the opposition which is bound to develop in both these parliamentary bodies, we think it unlikely that either would dare to torpedo the agreement. It is, after all, Europe's only hope.

Herriot and Marx are to be congratulated upon the spirit in which they conducted the negotiations. Each had to make sacrifices and each did make sacrifices. And each made them knowing that he was courting bitter attack and even retirement from political life. Each, a nice appreciation of the other's position and went to the uttermost extreme in subordinating mere national vanity to the ideal of the common international good.

Both Herriot and Marx had to give up a great deal more than either of their respective nations care to give up. That the agreement was essentially fair is proved by the fact that Paris and Berlin are alike cool towards it. Were Paris jubilant and Berlin indignant, we would know that something other than "even-handed justice" had been meted out. But, as it is, each country, while feeling no enthusiasm for the agreement, appears resigned to it. Roughly speaking, France has had to abandon the attitude of acting as Germany's jailer. France has insisted that she should be sole judge of Germany's defaultings and that she should punish when she saw fit and in any way she saw fit. The chief danger of this lay in the fact that France was as free to punish Germany for imaginary defaultings as for real defaultings. With the Dawes plan in effect, Germany cannot be punished for imaginary defaultings. The Allies must have final voice in determining whether the defaultings are real or imaginary. An elaborate machinery has been set up which makes it impossible for France to remain the irresponsible master of Germany. Yet France is safeguarded. If she has any genuine case against Germany, the Allies will see to it that the proper and proportionate sanctions and penalties are applied. Germany, meanwhile, is insured justice. Should she fail to live up to the spirit of the Dawes agreement, she will be taken to task, but she has nothing to worry about as long as she obeys the law faithfully to carry out the provisions. Instead of being accountable to France alone, Germany, from now on, will be accountable, so to speak, to a board of directors—and a board of directors not unsympathetic to her. France must cease being tyrannical and destructionist and Germany must cease being recalcitrant and obstructionist.

Brilliant work has been done by the London conference. The job of smoothing out difficulties which looked insurmountable has been successfully despatched. No one unfamiliar with the complicated skein of contradictory susceptibilities which had to be disentangled in order to understand the immensity of the task set before the delegates. American influence played an extremely important part in helping things along, and American ingenuity is to be given the credit for having found the way out of more than one deadlock which looked insoluble. We in the Northwest are entitled to feel a special pride in the fact that Ambassador Kellogg represented his country so well and acquitted himself so handsomely in the conference of such far-reaching magnitude. The Dawes plan begins to loom up as one of the most impressive accomplishments of modern times. The dawn of a new era appears to be breaking.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

BIMBO AND HIS PIG

"Let's go to see Bimbo the Clown," said Weeny, the circus elephant, to Nancy and Nick.

"Bimbo has a little pig called Squeaky and we're quite sure to have lots of fun."

"Oh, yes, let's," cried the Twins. "Clowns are jolly and kind, and we just love little pigs. Hurry up, Weeny, please."

"Let's see where Bimbo lives," said Weeny thoughtfully. "I think he lives between the five-and-ten-cent store and the movies, in Jolly Town."

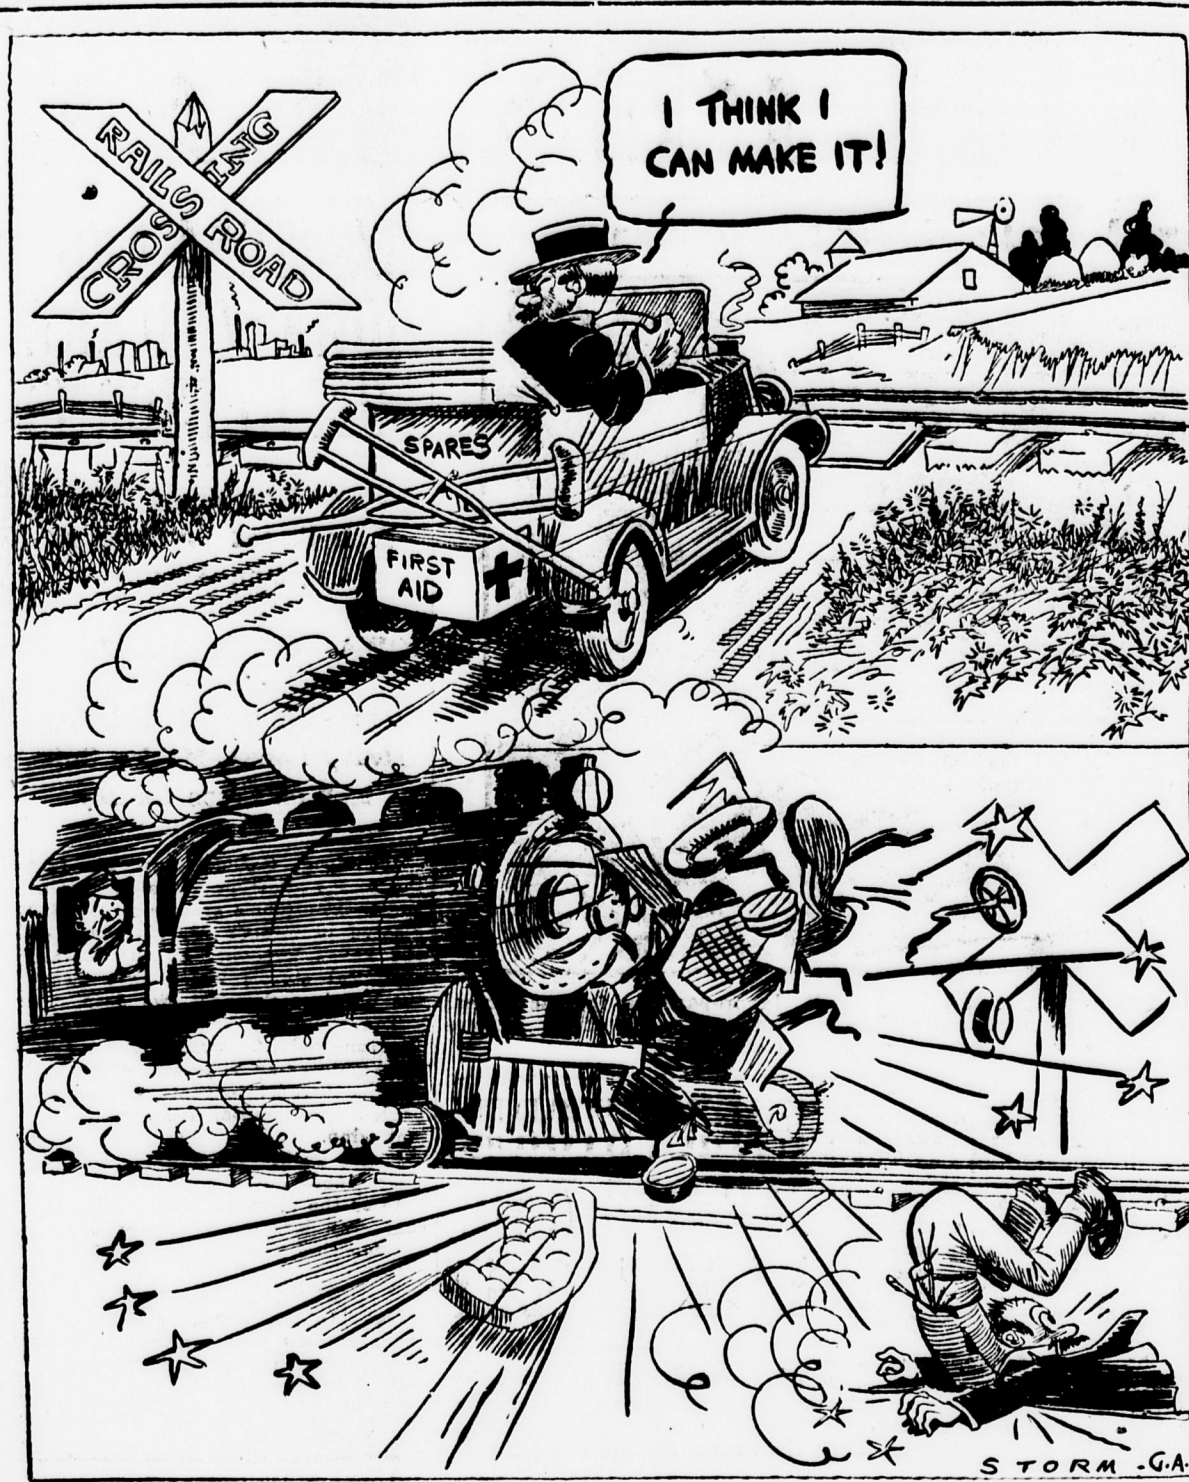

So away he went on his big paddy feet as fast as he could go, with the Twins on his back, to Jolly Town. Jolly Town had nothing but candy stores, and toy stores, and ice-cream stores, and five-and-ten-cent stores and movies.

And between the five-and-ten-cent store and the movies was a candy house with an ice-cream cone chimney and lime-drop windows. The steps were sugar loaves and the bricks were caramels. There was a candy stick fence with chocolate drop trimmings.

So away he hurried up to the door and knocked with his trunk.

"Does Bimbo live here?" he called

The Saddest Words of Tongue or Pen—

down the chimney. "Yes, he lives here," answered a queer voice up the chimney. "But he's not in."

"When will he be in?" asked Weeny down the chimney.

"He won't be in," said the queer voice up the chimney.

"Why?" asked Weeny.

"Because he can't get in," said the voice. "He can't get in because I'm here."

"Oh, you must be a mean person to keep him out of his own house!" said Weeny, severely. "You ought to be ashamed of yourself."

"I am ashamed," said the voice. "But I can't help it. I'd go out if I could get out, but I can't get out. I'm too fat. I fill the whole house and I'd knock everything to pieces if I tried to get out."

"Who are you?" asked Weeny.

"I'm Squeaky the Pig," said the voice.

"Why, you were just a wee little pig when I knew you in the circus," said Weeny, in surprise. "I'm your old friend, Weeny, the elephant, and I've brought some friends to see you. What's happened?"

"I just grew," said Squeaky, sadly. "Bimbo went away and left me one time and when he came back I'd grown so he couldn't get me out. I ate too much candy. Now he can't get in for I take up all the room. He just has to wait till I burst out. Oh, goodness—I believe I'm bursting now. I feel the roof giving. Look out, everybody!"

Suddenly there was a sound like a cannon-cracker on the Fourth of July and the candy house flew into a hundred pieces.

Up rushed Bimbo, who had just finished his act in one of the shows, and threw his arms around Squeaky's neck. "Oh, you poor darling!" he cried. "I'm so glad to see you!"

"No use staying here now," said Weeny, picking up his satchel. "There's no house to visit."

It takes dollars to convince the world you have sense.

Our ancestors lived in trees and the average man of today is up a tree much of the time.

Some men remind us of postage stamps. They must be licked before they will stick to a thing.

Barbers say men are having their hair waved. Males are. Men are not.

Talk about short measure, there's many a quart foot in a pint shoe.

The head of many a house is less than 10 years old.

People who live on second floors never blame the cliff dwellers for becoming extinct.

There is no use in starting trouble. It is a self-starter.

A man on top is just standing on his friends' shoulders.

No matter who you think you can't do, you are right about it.

The man who acts like a jackass is the goat and leads a dog's life.

A rolling stone gathers no work.

You see hand-painted pictures of health, but painting an old car doesn't take the knock out of the engine.

People often will give three cheers for something they wouldn't give anything else for.

It is estimated the hand shaking from one election would milk every cow in the United States twice.

Some women won't be happy in heaven if all the wings are alike.

Rubber heels on dad's shoes are fine chaperones.

The hard thing about being a poor man is you are liable to get shot instead of sued for breach of promise.

New York, Aug. 20.—Many men here go bareheaded during the summer.

It brings about some amusing situations.

A hatless friend of mine, standing in an aisle of a large department store was mistaken for a floorwalker.

"Where will I find woman's ready-to-wear clothes?" he was asked.

In a men's store a short time later, a man with two ties and money in his hand rushed up to him and said, "I'll take these two, wrap them up, I'm in a hurry."

The following day my friend was in another store. He chose several articles and took them to a man standing in the store.

"I'll take these," he said.

"Sorry," said the supposed clerk. "I don't work here, I left my hat in my car."

Families in the East Side tenement section consider it irregular to be without a "boarder."

Often a family of five or six will live in two rooms. Despite that fact they have a "boarder."

Two rooms in a tenement cost $12

a month. There is running water in the hallways. Gas meters geared to accept quarters. The boarder pays $5 a month toward the upkeep of the home. It is payable in advance.

One room serves as a kitchen and dining room and sleeping room for the children and the boarder. The mother and father live in the other room.

Livingston Street down on the East Side. A show place for older denizens of the tenement section. Customs and habits brought from another country persist. Men with long beards. Women with wigs. The "Mikwah" bath each Friday night before sundown. Pushcart fish salesmen. And the day is warm. Peddlers. Bargaining. Apples. Two for a penny. I'll give three cents for five. EVERETT TRUE BY CONDO

WHERE YOU'D BE A KING

By Albert Apple

A tired man, figuratively chained to an office desk or a work bench or a store counter and yearning for the great outdoor freedom that people had before the coming of "efficiency," must have sighed enviously if he caught this little news item:

William Ingram of England sues a New Yorker for a balance of $55,000 due on the purchase of the island of Little Tobago in the West Indies. The New Yorker claims the Englishman told him there were 600 birds-of-paradise on Little Tobago. The buyer figured on selling these birds of gorgeous plumage to millionaires whose estates they were to ornament. Instead, he says, he found only 12 of the birds.

The thing that will interest the reader most is that the entire island, a tropical paradise in the wonderful climate of the West Indies, sold for only $10,000.

Imagine being able to buy such a place.

There you would be king.

The lure of the South Seas is not the hula dancers nor the weird wailing of ukulele and steel guitar. What fascinates people is the idea of the freedom from worry and work supposed to be an inevitable accompaniment of island life.

Here is Little Tobago, for instance, selling for $10,000. There must be thousands of such islands. It is a marvel that people do not save their money, buy these little kingdoms and go there to live—far from the income tax, politicians, traffic regulations, city stench, nasty dispositions of nerve-wracked people, and the other discomforts of "civilization."

How'd you like to round up your friends and their families, buy an island and flee for good from the maddening crowd? Radio and newspaper and magazines would keep you in touch with most of the things you'd miss.

It is impossible for any man to be "monarch of all he surveys." The closest approach is to own a strip of land.

There is no greater pleasure than the realization that a definite section of the earth belongs to you, even if encumbered by a mortgage.

Few of us can escape the "system" and live on tropical islands. But we all can own a house and lot in the city or a small patch of ground with a "shack" and garden out in the country where we can spend vacations or week-ends.

The real rulers of the earth are the land owners.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO RUTH BURKE

That sister of mine, dear Ruth, is a mighty clever girl. In my last letter to you, you will remember I told you that mother had started to investigate the whole matter of those pearls. (Truly, Ruth, I wish I had never seen them.) I'm beginning to believe in the legend that pearls bring tears. Of course, you will say that they also brought me a great deal of joy and happiness, but if that string of beads is the cause of a separation between Jack and me, nothing else will matter.

Mother sent a telegram to Jack asking him to bring little Jack over here. I can just see my husband's face when he got the telegram. He realized that it is war to the knife with us.

I wonder if he remembers that Jack is legally my child, and if anything should come in the way of a separation, I shall insist upon having him. I haven't confided this to anyone up to date—in fact I have hardly voiced it to myself until this moment.

I don't think Jack can refuse to come on mother's invitation, especially as dad particularly wants to see him.

He will see from the kind of telegram which mother sent that she apparently does not know anything about our quarrel. It was a very diplomatic telegram. Mother wired that dad wanted to see Jack very much, and as I wanted the baby, he would better bring him himself. That was literally all.

Dear girl, this is not what I intended to write you at all when I started this letter. I had made up my mind it should be all about Alice. Yesterday before luncheon, without a word to anyone, my sister slipped out of the house. At dinner time she had not returned, and mother grew very much worried.

At last she confided to me that after she and Alice had left my room, she would kill herself if by any possibility Karl should ever know what she had done.

"What have you done?" asked mother.

Evidently Alice thought I had told mother what I suspected my sister of doing, but when she heard her question, she shut up, and after a few more sobs, said she wanted to be alone.

Two or three times during the morning mother rapped at Alice's door and was told again and again that Alice would rather not see anyone. The last time, just before lunch, however, she came in. I answered, and mother thought she was asleep. She waited all the afternoon, and when at dinner time she found from one of the maids that Alice had been gone ever since her luncheon, she was sure the girl had made away with herself.

I told her that my sister would never do that—that she was a good fighter whatever else she might be.

To calm her tears, however, I finally called up Karl's house. I could not find him. Mother felt better after that, as she suspected they were together, and would be coming later.

I confess, Ruth, I was a little bit worried myself, for I didn't just see what Alice was going to do to get out of it all. She had virtually confessed to me at least, before she went, when she frantically asked my mother not to tell Karl what she had done, that she had written that letter to Jack.

Ruth, I'm ashamed to say that I have no love for my younger sister, and I am ashamed that one of my own family has proved herself so unworthy.

FABLES ON HEALTH

BEWARE OF INSECTS

Protect your food from flies and various insects while camping trips, the Anytown Board of Health notified residents anticipating a summer trip into the hills or country.

With a little attention it is very easy to insure sanitation in an outdoor camp.

It may mean a little extra work to construct an outdoor cupboard, protected by netting, or to carefully cover the food supply against intrusions of insects, but it's worth it.

Many a lazy camper has been awakened to action only after his supplies have proved nests for flies and insects.

Other pointers that might be remembered are these:

Keep the campsite clean for the next fellow. A clean camp will not attract insects. Nothing makes a camper angrier than to come upon a once clean site and find it cluttered with debris from the last occupant.

It takes but a little work to dig a hole for tin cans and left-overs and it helps camping places in decent sanitary condition.

RETURNS FROM COAST

Attorney W. H. Stutsman has returned from a visit in California and Washington where he has been since early in July. Mr. Stutsman spent a few days at Iowa City on business and stopped at Omaha and Denver while en route to the coast. He spent part of the time at Los Angeles and later with Mrs. Stutsman and his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Storm at Seattle. He returned home on the Canadian Pacific. Mrs. Stutsman who has been on the coast since spring will return to Mandan in September.

TONIGHT - Wednesday LAST TIMES "SINGLE WIVES" CORINNE GRIFFITH MILTON SILLS NEWS COMEDY Tomorrow RETURN DATE "The Hottentot"

AT THE MOVIES

THE ELTINGE "The Hottentot" showing at the Eltinge theatre Thursday is the last of the return date showings at the Eltinge theatre. As a genuine laugh producing show it has few equals among pictures. Douglas McLean, Mudge Bellamy and Raymond Hutton are the principal players. Snook-ey, the monkey will also be seen in a comedy, "Snook-ey's Blue Monday."

AT THE CAPITOL Monte Blue, who has the leading masculine role in Grace Sanderson Michie's Defying Destiny, a thought-provoking photodrama, which will be at the Capitol Theatre tonight, is well known in motion picture circles, his most recent triumph being that of the doctor in Mann Street. He, also, scored a tremendous hit in others, but it is said that his greatest successes are more than surpassed by his sympathetic and convincing characterization of Jack Fenton in this his latest vehicle.

POET'S CORNER

THE STORM

The sun has hidden from our sight, While ominous clouds appear, As rays of flashing, lurid light, Proclaim a storm is drawing near.

The cows come rushing down the lane, With noisy tread and clanking bells, Their restless and uneasy mien, Of the approaching storm foretells.

The day has turned to summer night, No breath of wind pervades the air, The swallow homeward wings her flight, To soothe her helpless nestlings there.

Then suddenly the storm arrives, The rain in heavy torrents pours, While at each flash of lurid light, Sounds forth the thunder's mighty roars.

The wind, his fury now reveals, And levels, as with mighty stroke Of ax, held in gigantic hand, The noble and majestic oak.

Then suddenly the torrents cease, As fainter grows the thunder's roar, The storm has spent its awful wrath, The sun begins to shine once more.

GUESTS TAGS FOR TOURISTS IS PLANNED

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 20. Guest tags for visiting tourists have been prepared by the North Dakota Automobile association and will be distributed to garages and hotels, throughout the state which are members of the association. The tag is a blue circular sticker, with white lettering. The tags have the official Indian head marker in the center, the name of the North Dakota Automobile association at the top and the words "North Dakota" at the bottom. The sticker may be posted on the windshield, denoting to all residents of North Dakota that the occupants of the car are guests of the state. "We have more requests from visiting tourists at the state headquarters in Fargo for a 'guest mark' or 'tag' than for any other thing," said J. F. McGowan, manager of the association, recently. "It is hoped that police authorities and all other citizens of North Dakota will take special precautions to be courteous and helpful to our guests from other states. "Nothing which we could do would be of such great value to North Dakota as to gain a national reputation for courtesy to visiting tourists. Such a reputation would be paid quickly to every corner of the nation, and tourists would be glad to come here. "We have a good supply of the stickers and will be glad to furnish them to all who request them while the supply lasts."

HOLD DRIVER OF DEATH CAR FOR KILLING

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 20. A warrant, charging manslaughter, was issued today by Judge R. Bingham, justice of the peace against Dave Mung of Fargo, N. D., driver of the car in which Carlos Graham of Kansas City, Mo., was killed when it tipped over between Mapleton and Casselton, Saturday. Complaint was made by A. T. Arbuckle of Kansas City, one of the occupants of the car. Although a coroner's inquest was held and the jury found the death of Graham accidental, Arbuckle insisted that the warrant charging manslaughter be issued. In connection with the inquest also, according to Judge Bingham, a warrant has been issued against Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCauley, 82 Front Street, charging them with selling intoxicating liquor to Mung. They were arraigned before Judge Bingham and both demanded a preliminary hearing which was set for to-day. Bond was set at $1,000 in Mr. McCauley's case, and Mrs. McCauley's bond was set at $500. They were committed to the Cass county jail.

Free State Seeks To Build Up Foreign Trade

Dublin, Aug. 20. The debate on the estimates recently in the Irish House of Commons on the Free State Ministry of External Affairs is $20,245. Of this amount $11,294 is spent on foreign representation. The main purpose of the latter is the improvement of Free State foreign trade which, it is claimed, has increased to $806,445. The representative at Washington is approved as a special case and Minister Desmond Fitzgerald said it was expected that the Washington office would pay for itself. The cost of passports from the United States is to be $10.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

TRAFFIC PROBLEM

Under the present system of parking, the Capitol Car Line is a menace to the safety of automobilists and pedestrians alike. Several plans for parking automobiles have been proposed but none adopted. It is impossible under usual traffic conditions for an automobile to pass the street car on lower Fourth and on Main street.

If parking arrangements are not corrected soon, an accident may force a change. Surely the city would be liable in case of an accident if the present parking system is allowed to continue. It is impossible to drive a car on either side of the street car between the line of automobiles projecting at various angles.

The situation is so patent that the police department should without delay force parallel parking in the three blocks in question. It should not be necessary for an accident to force such a change in the parking arrangements.

There may be objections to parallel parking on some of the streets, but parking that calls for backing out against the stream of traffic is being discarded in most cities. Certainly the parking arrangements can be improved in this city and make for greater safety in driving.

LAFOLLETTE'S SOLE AIM

Not even the most enthusiastic follower of Senator Robert M. LaFollette in his wildest moments of enthusiasm will admit that the Wisconsin senator can be elected president. The best his supporters hope to do is to throw the election into Congress and there through the manipulation incident to such an impasse, dictate the presidential choice. It is hoped also by the LaFollette bloc to use his candidacy to elect as many congressmen and senators of the so-called progressive school of thought as possible.

If a considerable bloc of voters who are normally republican in states of well known republican leanings, however, vote the LaFollette ticket, the tide is liable to turn in favor of the democrats. Such was the case in the memorable Bull Moose campaign, but of course political conditions are different today and probably it is not logical or safe to draw too close an analogy between the two situations.

Despite the deplorable oil scandals, it must be admitted that the republican administration is bringing the nation back to normalcy. There is evident an honest attempt to lower public expenditures and President Coolidge has demonstrated a type of leadership, safe and American to the very core. In his acceptance speech, he quietly answered critics concerning the oil leases by pointing to the fact that every legal agency was at work to protect the interests of the people and to punish the evil doer. Those who expected a demagogic spurge over this incident were disappointed of course. That is not the Coolidge type of public service nor the theory of common sense in government which he so tersely defined in his memorable address.

LaFollette's candidacy serves no public need nor has it been received as enthusiastically in centers where it promised at first to receive greatest support.

Voters of this state can best serve the nation and safeguard their own interests by supporting Coolidge.

SOUND PHILOSOPHY

Senator Cartwright of California has uttered some very salient truths in a number of his public addresses. Here are a few maxims that smack of the philosophy of Benjamin Franklin:

"You cannot make the short man tall by cutting off the legs of the tall man."

"I can't make my hair grow by trimming yours."

"You cannot make the poor man rich by making the rich man poor."

"What is handed down to us does us very little good; what we earn for ourselves helps us to get more."

"Every time we give a man something for nothing, we weaken his backbone. And if we do it often enough, we destroy his backbone and leave him nothing but a wish-bone."

"The more the state does for the man the less the man will do for himself."

"The less a man knows about his own business, the more he thinks he knows about the business of government."

"Pretended friendship has been the subterfuge of bunco-steerers from the beginning of time."

"Never take the advice of a failure. He will lead to failure."

"The true friend of labor is the man who by word and deed aids in establishing and maintaining conditions of steady employment."

"Had no one saved there would be no capital."

"The more capital we create and save, the more employment there will be, and the higher the general standard of living."

"Every man who works and saves is a capitalist."

"We have been agitating and legislating and regulating the business man out of business and the working man out of his job."

"And we thought we were reformers."

"From the beginning of time the mainspring of industry has been the hope of private profit."

"Employment comes only through the investment of capital."

"Idle dollars mean idle men."

BOOTLEG

A big submarine is reported to be landing German beer, Scotch whisky and French champagnes near Boston. New York has its rum-running airplanes.

The country is far from dry, but liquor is getting harder to get when the bootleg gentry have to resort to planes and submarines. These two inventions may shortly be the chief problems of the liquor sleuths. At any rate, you'll live to see police and criminals fight duels overhead in the air.

AN IMPORTANT MILESTONE PASSED

(Minneapolis Tribune)

Another important milestone has been passed. The heads of the interested governments have signed the protocol providing the means for putting the Dawes plan into effect. The outlook for European recovery is, as a result, brighter than it has been at any time within the past five years.

We should be careful not to jump to conclusions and assume that the matter is settled. The French Parliament must still give its endorsement to M. Herriot. The German Reichstag must still give its endorsement to Chancellor Marx. But, without attempting to minimize the opposition which is bound to develop in both these parliamentary bodies, we think it unlikely that either would dare to torpedo the agreement. It is, after all, Europe's only hope.

Herriot and Marx are to be congratulated upon the spirit in which they conducted the negotiations. Each had to make sacrifices and each did make sacrifices. And each made them knowing that he was courting bitter attack and even retirement from public life. Each had a deep appreciation of the other's position, and went to the uttermost extreme in subordinating more nationalist vanity to the ideal of the common international good.

Both Herriot and Marx had to give up a great deal more than either of their respective nations care to give up. That the agreement was essentially fair is proved by the fact that Paris and Berlin are alike cool towards it. Were Paris jubilant and Berlin indignant, or Berlin jubilant and Paris indignant, we would know that something other than "even-handed justice" had been meted out. But, as it is, each country, while feeling no enthusiasm for the agreement, appears resigned to it.

Roughly speaking, France has had to abandon the attitude of accusing Germany's default. France has insisted that she should be sole judge of Germany's default, and that she should punish them when she saw fit and in any way she saw fit. The chief danger of this lay in the fact that France was at free to punish Germany for imaginary defaultings as for real defaultings. With the Dawes plan in effect, Germany cannot be punished for imaginary defaultings. The Allies must have final voice in determining whether the defaultings are real or imaginary. An elaborate machinery has been set up which makes it impossible for France to remain the irresponsible master of Germany. Yet France is safeguarded. If she has any genuine case against Germany, the Allies will see to it that the proper and proportionate sanctions and penalties are applied. Germany, meanwhile, is insured justice. Should she fail to live up to the spirit of the Dawes agreement, she will be taken to task, but she has nothing to worry about as long as she endeavors faithfully to carry out the provisions. Instead of being accountable to France alone, Germany, from now on, will be accountable, so to speak, to a board of directors—and a board of directors not unsympathetic to her. France will cease being tyrannical and obstructionist and Germany must cease being recalcitrant and obstructionist.

Brilliant work has been done by the London conference. The job of smoothing out difficulties which looked insurmountable has been successfully dispatched. No one unfamiliar with the complicated skein of contradictory susceptibilities which had to be kept in mind could begin to understand the immensity of the task set before the delegates. American influence played an extremely important part in helping things along, and American ingenuity is to be given the credit for having found the way out of more than one deadlock which looked insoluble. We in the Northwest are entitled to feel a special pride in the fact that Ambassador Kellogg represented our country so well and acquitted himself so handsomely in a conference of such far-reaching magnitude. The Dawes plan begins to loom up as one of the most impressive accomplishments of modern times. The dawn of a new era appears to be breaking.

down the chimney.

"Yes, he lives here," answered a queer voice up the chimney. "But he's not in."

"When will he be in?" asked Weeny down the chimney.

"He won't be in," said the queer voice up the chimney.

"Why?" asked Weeny.

"Because he can't get in," said the voice. "He can't get in because I'm here."

"Oh, you must be a mean person to keep him out of his own house!" said Weeny, severely. "You ought to be ashamed of yourself."

"I am ashamed," said the voice. "But I can't help it. I'd go out if I could get out, but I can't get out. I'd knock everything to pieces if I tried to get out."

"Who are you?" asked Weeny.

"I'm Squeaky the Pig," said the voice.

"Why, you were just a wee little pig when I knew you in the circus," said Weeny, in surprise. "I'm your old friend, Weeny, the elephant, and I've brought some friends to see you. What's happened?"

"I just grew," said Squeaky, sadly. "Bimbo went away and left me one time and when he came back I'd grown so he couldn't get me out. I ate too much candy. Now he can't get in for I take up all the room. He just has to wait till I burst out. Oh, goodness—I believe I'm bursting now. I feel the roof giving. Look out, everybody!"

Suddenly there was a sound like a cannon-cracker on the Fourth of July and the candy house flew into a hundred pieces.

Up rushed Bimbo, who had just finished his act in one of the shows, and threw his arms around Squeaky's neck. "Oh, you poor darling!" he cried. "I'm so glad to see you!"

"No use staying here now," said Weeny, picking up his satchel. "There's no house to visit."

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

BIMBO AND HIS PIG

"Let's go to see Bimbo the Clown," said Weeny, the circus elephant to Nancy and Nick.

"Bimbo has a little pig called Squeaky and we're quite sure to have lots of fun."

"Oh, yes, let's," cried the Twins. "Clowns are jolly and kind, and we just love little pigs. Hurry up, Weeny, please."

"Let's see where Bimbo lives," said Weeny thoughtfully. "I think he lives between the five-and-ten-cent store and the movie, in Jolly Town."

So away he went on his big paddy feet as fast as he could go, with the Twins on his back, to Jolly Town. Jolly Town had nothing but candy stores, and toy stores, and ice-cream stores, and five-and-ten-cent stores and movies.

And right between the five-and-ten-cent store and the movie was a candy-house with an ice-cream cone chimney and lime-drop windows. The steps were sugar loaves and the bricks were caramels. There was a candy stick fence with chocolate drop trimmings.

Weeny hurried up to the door and knocked on his trunk.

"Does Bimbo live here?" he called

WHERE YOU'D BE A KING

By Albert Apple

A tired man, figuratively chained to an office desk or a work bench or a store counter and yearning for the great outdoor freedom that people had before the coming of "efficiency," must have sighed enviously if he caught this little news item:

William Ingram of England sues a New Yorker for a balance of $5500 due on the purchase of the island of Little Tobago in the West Indies. The New Yorker claims the Englishman told him there were 600 birds-of-paradise on Little Tobago. The buyer figured on selling these birds of gorgeous plumage to millionaires whose estates they were to ornament. Instead, he says, he found only 12 of the birds.

The thing that will interest the reader most is that the entire island, a tropical paradise in the wonderful climate of the West Indies, sold for only $10,000.

Imagine being able to buy such a place.

There you would be king.

The lure of the South Seas is not the hula dancers nor the weird wailing of ukulele and steel guitar. What fascinates people is the idea of the freedom from worry and work supposed to be an inevitable accompaniment of island life.

Here is Little Tobago, for instance, selling for $10,000. There must be thousands of such islands. It is a marvel that people do not save their money, buy these little kingdoms and go there to live—far from the income tax, politicians, traffic regulations, city stench, nasty dispositions of 'nervewracked people, and the other discomforts of "civilization."

How'd you like to round up your friends and their families, buy an island and flee for good from the maddening crowd? Radio and newspaper and magazines would keep you in touch with most of the things you'd miss.

It is impossible for any man to be "monarch of all he surveys." The closest approach is to own a strip of land.

There is no greater pleasure than the realization that a definite section of the earth belongs to you, even if encumbered by a mortgage.

Few of us can escape the "system" and live on tropical islands. But we all can own a house and lot in the city or a small patch of ground with a "shack" and garden out in the country where we can spend vacations or week-ends.

The real rulers of the earth are the land owners.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO RUTH BURKE

That sister of mine, dear Ruth, is a mighty clever girl. In my last letter to you, you will remember I told you that mother had started to investigate the whole matter of those pearls. (Truly, Ruth, I wish I had never seen them.) I'm beginning to believe in the legend that pearls bring tears. Of course, you will say that I shall insist upon a great deal of joy and happiness, but if that string of beads is the cause of a separation between Jack and me, nothing else will matter.

Mother sent a telegram to Jack asking him to bring little Jack over here. I can just see my husband's face when he got the telegram. He realized that it is war to the knife with us.

I wonder if he remembers that Jack is legally my child, and if anything should come in the way of separation, I shall insist upon having him. I haven't confided this to anyone up to date—in fact I have hardly voiced it to myself until this moment.

I don't think Jack can refuse to come on mother's invitation, especially as dad particularly wants to see him.

He will see from the kind of telegram which mother sent that she apparently does not know anything about our quarrel. It was a very diplomatic telegram. Mother very tactfully said that Jack was very much, and as I wanted the baby, he would better bring him himself. That was literally all.

Dear girl, this is not what I intended to write you at all when I started this letter. I had made up my mind it should be all about Alice. Yesterday before luncheon, I slipped out of the house. At dinner time she had not returned, and mother grew very much worried. At last she confided to me that after she and Alice had left my room, she would kill herself if by any possibility Karl should ever know what she had done.

"What have you done?" asked mother.

Obviously Alice thought I had told mother what I suspected my sister of doing, but when she heard her question, she shut up, and after a few more sobs, said she wanted to be alone.

Two or three times during the morning mother rapped at Alice's door and was told again and again that Alice would rather not see anyone. The last time, just before lunch, however, there was an answer, and mother thought she was asleep.

When at dinner time she found from one of the maids that Alice had been gone ever since before luncheon, she was sure the girl had made away with herself.

I told her that my sister would never do that—that she was a good fighter whatever else she might be.

To calm her tears, however, I finally called up Karl's house. I could not find him. Mother felt better after that, as she surmised they were together, and would be coming in later.

I confess, Ruth, I was a little bit weak myself, for I didn't just see what Alice was going to do to get out of it. She had virtually confessed to me at least, before Karl, when she frantically asked my mother not to tell Karl what she had done, that she had written that letter to Jack.

Ruth, I'm ashamed to say that I have no love for my younger sister, and I am ashamed that one of my own family has proved herself so unworthy.

FABLES ON HEALTH

BEWARE OF INSECTS

Protect your food from flies and various insects while on camping trips, the Anytown Board of Health notified residents anticipating a summer trip into the hills or country.

With a little attention it is very easy to insure sanitation in an outdoor camp.

It may mean a little extra work to construct an outdoor cupboard, protected by netting, or to carefully cover the food supply against intrusions of insects, but it's worth it.

Many a lazy camper has been awakened to action only after his supplies have proved nests for flies and bugs.

Other pointers that might be remembered are these:

Keep the campsite clean for the next fellow. A clean camp will not attract insects. Nothing makes a camper angrier than to come upon a once clean site and find it cluttered with debris from the last occupant.

It takes but a little work to dig a hole for tin cans and left-overs and it helps camping places in decent sanitary condition.

RETURNS FROM COAST

Attorney W. H. Stutsman has returned from a visit in California and Washington where he has been since early in July. Mr. Stutsman spent a few days at Iowa City on business and stopped at Omaha and Denver while enroute to the coast. He spent part of the time at Los Angeles and latter with Mrs. Stutsman and his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Storm at Seattle.

Mr. Stutsman returned from the Canadian Pacific. Mrs. Stutsman, who has been on the coast since spring, will return to Mandan in September.

BACK FROM ORIENT

Attorney Joseph Sullivan has returned from a two month's trip to the Orient on the S. S. McKinley. Mr. Sullivan was drummer in the North Dakota University orchestra on the steamer which made stops at Yokohama, Tokio, Kobe, Shanghai and Manila.

EVENING WRAPS

Evening wraps are more symptomatic for this season than ever before and are made of velvets and tulle, heavily embroidered and fur-trimmed.

MANDAN NEWS

WILL RECOVER

Joseph Soucy, Jr., well known farmer of south of the city who was seriously injured Monday is resting easily at the Deaconess hospital, say attending physicians.

An X-ray examination showed severe internal injuries from a badly fractured pelvis received when he was run over by the wagon which a few minutes later tipped over behind the runaway team, causing fatal injuries to his son, aged 13, who died just after being brought to the hospital.

Mr. Soucy's condition is such that he will be confined for not less than two months. Relatives and neighbors of the vicinity in which he lives have offered all assistance possible to get in his crop which is one of the finest of the district.

The funeral services for George Soucy were held this morning at 9:30 at St. Joseph's Catholic church, burial to take place in the local cemetery.

Brooklyn Takes a Close Game, Four to Three

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Brooklyn and Pittsburgh staged yesterday's feature game in the Nationals, "Daddy" Vance and Cooper looking up in a pitching duel. Brooklyn won on Vance's home run with one out. Vance, who had not been defeated by Pittsburgh for two years, bested Cooper. The score was 4 to 3.

The Giants hopped on to Adolpho Luque, while McQuillan pitched steadily, and the New Yorkers won, 6 to 3.

In the Americans, the Washington club beat Detroit twice, making it four out of five in the series with Detroit. The double victory pulled Detroit down and put the Senators in second place. In the first game, Morridge pitched Washington to victory, 4 to 3, while Zachary and Russell pitched well in the second, the Senators winning, 5 to 3.

Philadelphia beat Cleveland, 5 to 3, and Boston beat St. Louis, 11 to 5. Fladstad hit a homer with two on bases.

GIBBONS PAID ONLY $12,000

His Trip to Europe Financial Failure

New York, Aug. 20.—Tom Gibbons' trip to Europe was a financial failure, his manager Eddie Kane, said when he and the fighter returned aboard the White Star liner Olympic. Gibbons, who recently defeated Jack Bloomfield, light-heavyweight champion of England, in the third round of a scheduled 12 round bout, received only $12,000 for his share of the proceeds of the bout, Kane said. He had been guaranteed $50,000, according to Kane, who charged poor management on the part of the British promoter. Both the fighter and his manager expressed themselves as pleased with the treatment accorded them by British sportsmen.

Gibbons will proceed at once to his home in St. Paul. His plans for the future are unsettled, he said.

REBUILD NOSE OF DEMPSEY

Made Over For the Movie Directors

Los Angeles, Aug. 20.—Who ever opposes Jack Dempsey in the next battle for the heavyweight ring championship will have an opportunity to test his marksmanship on a nice new nose.

The world's champion went into retirement with a bandaged face after bowing to the film-dom of having one's nose re-built to suit the camera man.

Since Dempsey has been publicly connected with the motion picture industry, all summer, there was no way out of it, and accordingly the plastic surgeon, was given permission to cut away a piece of the boxer's ear and put it where it would make his nose look like Valentino's.

The Pennsylvania Hospital, in Philadelphia, operated under a charter originally granted to it by George II of England in 1761.

EPINARD TAKES STEPS 25 FEET LONG!

Champion Horse of French Turf, Here For Series of Match Races, Has Longest Stride of Any Known Racer

25-FT. STRIDE

By NEA Service

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 20.—One reason why American turfmen are beginning to fear Epinard, the visiting turf champion of France, is that he has the longest stride of any known thoroughbred.

Actual measurements have shown that Epinard's stride is a fraction better than 25 feet. No other great runner known to the turf can show a stride to match this.

Epinard's present stride is better even than was Man o' War's when the great American horse was running at the top of his brilliant form.

Horsemen say that Man o' War's maximum stride was 24 feet 9 inches. These were his figures when he broke all time records in winning the Lawrence Realization Stakes several years ago.

Epinard is one of the longest horses for his height ever to be seen in action in this country. In this respect he is the freak of the turf.

Nevertheless Epinard is capable of great speed and his abnormally long strides enable him to cover plenty of ground with each bound.

stroke about a year ago and had never fully recovered from it, although he continued working.

He became unconscious Sunday night and did not regain consciousness.

He was a member of the Knights of Columbus, Order of Railway Conductors, and Yeomen lodges.

Mr. Gorman leaves his wife, two sons, Mrs. Kate Stevens, Ortonville, Minn.; Mrs. M. Douglas, Ontario, Can.; two daughters, Mrs. F. P. Lavelle and Margaret Gorman, Fargo, and seven sons, Thomas J., Frank J., Walter A., Clifford P., and Jerome S., all of Fargo; Edward J., Portland, Ore., and Leo, of Astoria, Ore.

Funeral services will be held from the St. Mary's cathedral at 9 a. m. Thursday, Father Thomas Egan officiating. Burial will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

FORD GIVES COOLIDGE AID

Squaw in Calif. Is 120 Years Old

Yosemite, Cal., Aug. 20.—Apparently authentic records indicate that "Indian Lucy," a squaw living in the Yosemite Valley, is 120 years old. She is believed to be one of the oldest women in the world.

Lucy lives in a typical Indian tepee not far from Camp Curry, but keeps out of sight of the tourists. She has difficulty in walking, but otherwise retains full possession of her faculties. She can remember clearly the events of 100 years ago. She was living in the valley when the first white men made their entrance and finds pleasure in relating the details of their occupation.

Piles Can Be Cured Without Surgery

An instructive book has been published by Dr. S. McCleary, the noted rectal specialist of Kansas City. This book tells how sufferers from piles can be quickly and easily cured without the use of knife, scissors, "hot" iron, electricity or any other cutting or burning method, without confinement to bed and no hospital bills to pay. The method has been a success for twenty-four years and in more than eight thousand cases. The book is sent postpaid free to persons afflicted with piles or other rectal troubles who clip this item and mail it with name and address to Dr. McCleary, D542 Parkway Sanitarium, Kansas City, Mo.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 20.—James Gorman, 67, 115 Twelfth st. N. resident of Fargo for 34 years, died at his home here of a stroke of paralysis following a serious illness since last Friday. Mr. Gorman had been a railroad conductor for the past 41 years in the employ of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific roads.

He was born in Ottawa, Can., April 1, 1857. He came to North Dakota in 1883, settling at Larimore to take a position with the Great Northern railway. While at Larimore he married Emilia Edwards, Nov. 22, 1887. He came to Fargo 24 years ago and took a position with the Northern Pacific, which he held until two weeks ago, when he was forced to resign because of illness.

Mr. Gorman was the victim of a

MARKET NEWS

WHEAT DOWN EARLY TODAY

Bearish Market Created by New Estimates

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Persistent selling by commission houses made wheat prices average lower today during the early dealings. Bearish estimates of the spring crop yield in the Dakotas and Minnesota were a factor. According to a leading authority the production in the three states promises to be 65,000,000 bushels more than the latest government estimates. Opening quotations, which varied from unchanged figures to one-half cent lower, with September $1.27½ and $1.28 and December $1.32½ to $1.33 were followed by numerous fractional changes and then by a material setback all around.

Most of the selling appeared to be from northwestern and eastern sections. Weather conditions both south and north of the Canadian boundaries more favorable for harvesting and crop movements. The close was: Sept. $1.27 1-4 to $1.27 3-8; Dec. $1.32 3-8 to $1.32 1-2.

THIEVES' JUSTICE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

John Ainsley, a man of education and breeding, becomes a master crook—preying upon other thieves, in arranging with a "fence" to dispose of a box of jewels which he stole from the White Eagle, a crook. Ainsley was overheard by Swede Thomassen, a brutal murderer in hiding.

Thomassen comes to Ainsley's apartment, covers him with a revolver, and demands half of the loot. He orders Ainsley to go and get the jewels from the safe-deposit box downtown. When he drops down Clement Rowe, the artist friend to whom Lesbia referred.

Her eyes sparkled, her breath came quickly, her ambition and anticipation showed in her bonny face as he told her of studio life in the city. Her father had been a noted tragedian. Perhaps there was life in her the careless, happy bohemian idealist.

It seemed as though the sun had departed from the heavens the day that Clement Rowe left Merton. He had promised to return the next month. There came a chatty, friendly letter from Clement.

Clement Rowe did not return as he had promised. Poor little spirit! She grieved to think she was so forgotten. Then a wonderful happening took up her attention. An aunt had died leaving her twenty-five thousand dollars.

It was all in money, Ira Dunn told her, and he developed a sudden new interest in his charge.

Now Ira Dunn conceived a great idea of keeping that money in the family. He had a favorite nephew in a neighboring town. Behold, within a brief time, this Abner Bowen, a guest at the Dunn home, instead, the chosen suitor for the hand of the pretty little heiress!

Lesbia treated the awkward, curly-haired youth with kindness, as her gentle nature impelled her. One day Abner Bowen blunderingly proposed to Lesbia. So pale had the specter of death been put into his mouth by Ira Dunn that Lesbia laughed outright at him. In a later spirited interview with Mr. Dunn she flatly rejected his candidate and the schemer set about forming new plots.

Then gradually there came to Lesbia's mind an intense desire to make of art her life endeavor. She made of her room a regular studio. But she missed the expert hand that had taught her the rudiments of a profession she was resolute to adopt.

And then one day came a remarkable discovery, that abruptly changed all the impulses of her young life and hurried the accomplishment of her soul's ambition.

She was looking for an old scrapbook in the library when she came across what appeared to be the penciled draft of a letter written by Mr. Dunn. She could not take her eyes from the sheet, as she saw that it concerned Clement Rowe.

It had apparently been written right after Lesbia had answered the first and only missive she had received from the artist. It told Lesbia that Clement had written a manly letter to Mr. Dunn, confessed his love for her and asking his permission to renew the acquaintance.

"The reply had been that Lesbia was already selected for a suitor, that she would ultimately become an heiress, and that if Clement persisted in his attentions he would lie under the suspicion of being a mere fortune hunter.

"Poor, proud soul!" cries Lesbia, her eyes scintillating with indignation, mingled with reverence for the man she had learned to esteem. "And he has loved me all the time! Oh, what is easy now! As to the fortune—"

Her busy little mind mopped out and carried out a speedy program. Money should cease to be a barrier between Clement and herself, she resolved.

The next morning Lesbia went about her work where her little fortune was deposited. First she drew out a few hundred dollars for her own personal use. Next, she sent half of the remainder to an old aunt who had grown under the hard burden of a heavy mortgage on her home for many years. The balance Lesbia donated to a home for orphans in a near city.

"He can be no fortune hunter now," she whispered rapidly to herself—"if he really wants me."

A note apprised Ira Dunn of what his independent charge had done the next day.

One day Clement Rowe received a note from a Mrs. Ernest Moore. She was the widow of an artist, and an artist herself. As he entered her studio he chanced to glance past the draperies at an aproned figure standing busy at work before an easel.

"Miss Austin!" he fairly gasped, "and here!"

"Yes, for a month past she has been my helper," replied Mrs. Moore, with a happy smile. "She is making good headway toward a point where she can earn her living."

"What! she, an heiress?" challenged Clement incredulously.

"Let me tell you a story," said the lady artist—and she did.

"Now, then, Mr. Rowe," she remarked brightly, "I am going to leave you alone to renew your acquaintance with the wildwood nymph you mourned as lost."

Blinded fate! The sunlight was bright in that quiet studio, two dauntless spirits met on the threshold of a blissful destiny. The barrier of fortune was gone, and they could work and love together in the pure, simple glory of perfect harmony of mind and soul.

HUGE ORGAN TO BE BUILT

Los Angeles, Aug. 20.—What is described as the largest orchestral organ in the world is to be installed in Hollywood Bowl, a natural open-air amphitheatre in the foothills of Hollywood. It is said that the organ will have pipes as long as 64 feet, with enough lumber in one of them to build a bungalow, and that the vibration in the bass chambers will have so great an intensity that if it should strike a human being, without interfering tones, it would knock him unconscious.

Some Preliminaries to His Good Night's Rest

Courtlundt Bleecker, at a dinner on Fifth avenue, was talking about the high prices in Europe since the war. "Yes, they are high sometimes, but most of it is travelers' tales. That reminds me that I heard a good one recently. It was a tale about Ceylon. An American had just arrived at a Colombo hotel and the chambermaid said to him, as she put his bedroom in order: 'Have you asked at the office for your frog, sir?' 'My frog?' queried the American, 'what do you mean by the frog? Is it your cockroaches, sir?' 'Make them give you a young, lean, muscular frog, a good jumper: one that will clean out the cockroaches thoroughly. Then, afterward, when the cockroaches are all gone, you must go down to the office again and get your snake.' 'Snake? Holy Moses! Why a snake?' replied the man. And then, sir, as the frog is eaten, you must get out of bed and kill the snake with a club; after that you'll be sure of a good night's rest.'"

The Builder of Dreams

By GEORGE ELMER COBB

"He has brought a new motive into my life—he is the best man I ever knew," spoke Lesbia Austin with force and sincerity.

"Him?" commented her guardian and distant relative, Ira Dunn. He had his own ideas about Clement Rowe, the artist friend to whom Lesbia referred.

Her eyes sparkled, her breath came quickly, her ambition and anticipation shined in her blue face as he told her of studio life in the city. Her father had been a noted tragedian. Perhaps there was born in her the careless, happy bohemian instinct.

John Ainsley, Master Thief

Copyright 1924, NEA Service Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

John Ainsley, a man of education and breeding, becomes a master crook—preying upon other thieves. In arranging with a "fence" to dispose of a box of jewels which he stole from the White Eagle, a crook, Ainsley was overheard by Swede Thomassen, a brutal murderer in hiding.

Thomassen comes to Ainsley's apartment, covers him with a revolver, and demands half of the loot. He orders Ainsley to go and get the jewels from the safe-deposit box downtown. Then he drops down on a bed in Ainsley's apartment and goes to sleep, confident that Ainsley will not cross him. Ainsley is fearful of exposing him to the police because then he himself would become involved in the answering of many unpleasant questions.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

With a groan I dismissed my plan. I could not give up my liberty. The shame of exposure was more than I could endure. Yet to permit Thomassen to escape, to aid him in his escape, was to endure a private shame as hideous as any public exposure.

I was caught between the devil and the deep sea.

And then inspiration came to me, as it must come to anyone caught between the devil and the deep sea, unless he would perish.

My guest would not awaken. So I went to my own chamber—he was in the room next the living-room—and from my bed I took a sheet. Of it, and two pillows and several books to give the thing weight, I made a clumsy effigy of a man. I wrapped a dark overcoat around the figure, buttoned it, tied string about it to keep it in place, and went quietly to the window. I raised it and looked out.

The window opened on a vacant area in the rear of the building. Below it, a good four feet below it, was a ledge perhaps two feet wide. I lifted my effigy through the window, lowered it and placed it carefully upon the ledge. It was quite heavy; I had placed several books inside it.

It would not balance truly upon the ledge, but fastening it with a string to the handle on the inside of the window, whereby it was raised, the bundle or effigy would stay in place. And when I closed the window the dark twine was not noticeable inside the room. I drew the curtain to make sure that the twine would not be observed by Thomassen.

Of course dwellers in the distant buildings might see my bundle when light came with the morning. But New Yorkers are incurious about their neighbors. Strange things can occur without arousing questions. And anyway, this was a chance I had to take. And having taken it, I went to bed.

Thomassen awakened me in the morning. He was ravenously hungry, and I was forced to prepare him a breakfast. I answered at his mercy as he ate. I am fairly composed myself, but I only ate in order that his suspicions might not be aroused. For I must seem to him reconciled to his presence and his purpose. The man was like a wild beast. If he became suspicious, he would kill.

But he thought that he understood me. I was philosophic enough to make the best of a bad situation, he reasoned. He let me leave the apartment, to fetch the jewels from the safe-deposit box, with hardly a reminding threat to force me not to play him false.

Cautioning him to keep away from the windows, and to answer no rings at the doorbell or telephone, I left him.

"You're more scared than I am," were his last words to me. "And I'm facing the chair, while you've got nothing to be afraid of but Sing Sing."

I confess that I shuddered as he mentioned the name of the grim prison up the Hudson. I feared death less than I did capture by the police. Indeed, I was going to prove the truth of what I have just said. For I was going to risk death.

I had procured a week before, the number of the telephone installed in the furnished house which, under the imposing alias of the Duc de Montalier, the White Eagle had rented early in the winter. Trembling with excitement, from a telephone-booth in a drug-store on Amsterdam Avenue, I called up this number.

The chances were a hundred to one that the White Eagle no longer resided here. His servants had been let go, and his bags had been packed, in preparation for hurried flight on the night that he had robbed Anderson. But the fact that I had relieved him of his booty might have changed his plans. The White Eagle was daring. He knew that it was unlikely that Anderson suspected his loss. And when the millionaire sailed for South America, it was obvious that the theft had not been discovered. There was no reason, then, why Anderson and Cochet should not continue living in the house off the Avenue. A less bold thief would be certain to flee, but the White Eagle was one in a million. I prayed that he would answer the telephone.

He did so. I recognized the menacing tones. And I wasted no time in preliminaries.

"Cochet, this is a friend. The other night you were robbed."

A lesser man would have given way to excitement, but the White Eagle's nerves were of steel. I could hear a faint gasp, swiftly suppressed, but that was all.

"I am an enemy of the man who robbed you," I declared. It was the truth; every man is his own worst enemy. "I know where he is to be tonight. He and his partner will be dividing the Anderson jewels at nine o'clock. They will be in a bedroom in an apartment on Central Park West."

His iron will could repress his excitement no longer.

"The address! The man's name?" he cried.

I laughed softly. "Patience, my friend. Suppose I gave you that address now? Could you restrain your desire for revenge until tonight? Although I am proving my friendship by this information, you would not trust me. No, my friend, you will receive the information at eight-thirty. A messenger will come to you, bearing an envelope which will contain the information you wish, and a key to the apartment, in order that you may enter quietly."

"A trap!" said Cochet. "To what end? If I spoke for the police—but that is absurd. If the police knew of you, they would be at your door."

"Who are you?" he demanded.

But I hung up without answering. I thought I knew my man. Revenge and greed would cause him to come to my apartment. So I went to a messenger office. Then I wrote a note to the Duc de Montalier. I described my apartment, and told him the exact situation of my bedroom. I put an extra key to the apartment in the envelope, as I had promised, and gave it to the manager of the office with strict instructions not to deliver it until eight-thirty. His satisfaction with the generous tip I gave him convinced me that he would obey my instructions implicitly. If he didn't, well, that was a chance I must take.

Then I went to the safe-deposit vault and removed the brown paper parcel which contained the Anderson jewels that had belonged to Marcus Anderson.

Anderson, I returned to my apartment—and then began the hardest part of my task.

This was to keep Thomassen in my rooms until after dark. For the plan which I had conceived needed darkness in its execution.

Natural as it was, an unweelcome guest was in a fever of impatience to depart, once he had glimpsed the Anderson treasures. But I played upon his fears. The police, I told him, were scouring the city. Every station, every ferry, every road and bridge were guarded. He would have no chance whatsoever of passing the jewels in daylight. Indeed, for him to appear upon any street, however secluded, was dangerous. I convinced him, at length.

It was the most trying day of my life. I could read the thoughts in the murderer's brain. We had divided the jewels, and he had been a shade too confident in passing the jewels to me. I knew that he was thinking, all the time, that he might as well have them all. I only hoped that he would delay translating thought into deed until the White Eagle should arrive.

Gauls Conceded to Be First Makers of Soap

Made from goat's tallow and beechwood ashes, the earliest forms of soap were used by the ancient inhabitants of Germany to give a reddish color to the hair, according to the records of the historian, Pliny the elder. Although known into hard and liquid states, it was not known as a cleansing substance, but was often employed in the treatment of skin troubles.

The Gauls, it is said, introduced it into other parts of the world. Today the yearly production of the United States is estimated to be two and one-half billion pounds. Not until about the second century of the Christian era was the product used as a cleansing article. It is claimed, and an ancient factory for manufacturing the material was unearthed in the ruins of Pompeii still contained a quantity of it in a good state of preservation.

Northern Spain and Marseilles later became the chief centers of the industry and produced large amounts of the castle variety from olive oil and lye. Earlier accounts of the existence of soap among Asiatic peoples are believed to refer to some kinds of mixtures which were devoted to purposes entirely apart from those of dyes or cleansing substances.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

That reminds me that I heard a good one recently. It was a tale about Ceylon. An American had just arrived at a Colombo hotel and the chambermaid said to him, as she put his bedroom in order: 'Have you asked at the office for your frog, sir? My frog?'" gaped the American, "what do you mean?" "The frog to kill your cockroaches, sir. Make them give you a young, lean, muscular frog, a good jumper; one that will clean out the cockroaches thoroughly. Then, afterward, when the cockroaches are all gone, you must go down to the office again and get your snake!"

"Snake? Holy Moses! Why a snake?" "A snake to eat the frog, sir," replied the maid. "And then, as soon as the frog is eaten, you must get out of bed and kill the snake with a club; after that you'll be sure of a good night's rest."

HUGE ORGAN TO BE BUILT

Los Angeles, Aug. 20.—What is described as the largest orchestral organ in the world is to be installed in Hollywood Bowl, a natural open-air amphitheatre in the foothills of Hollywood. It is said that the organ will have pipes as long as 64 feet, with enough lumber in one of them to build a bungalow, and that the vibration in the bass chambers will have so great an intensity that it should strike a human being, without interfering tones, it would knock him unconscious.

VANCE BESTS PIRATE HURLER

Brooklyn Takes a Close Game, Four to Three

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Brooklyn and Pittsburgh staged yesterday's feature game in the National League. Vance and Cooper looking up in a pitcher's duel, Brooklyn won on Brown's home run with one on. Vance, who had not been defeated by Pittsburgh for two years, bested Cooper. The score was 4 to 3.

The Grits hopped on to Adolphus Loring, while McQuinn, 40, not steadily, and the New Yorkers won, 6 to 3.

In the Americans, the Washington club beat Detroit twice, making it four out of five in the series with Detroit. The double victory pulled Detroit down and put the Senators in second place. In the first game Mortridge pitched Washington to victory, 4 to 1, while Zolary and Russell pitched well in the second, the Senators winning, 5 to 1.

Philadelphia beat Cleveland, 5 to 1, and Boston beat St. Louis, 11 to 3. Cleveland hit a homer with two on bases.

GIBBONS PAID ONLY $12,000

His Trip to Europe Financial Failure

New York, Aug. 20.—Tom Gibbons, trip to Europe was a financial failure, his manager Eddie Kane said yesterday. Gibbons returned aboard the White Star liner Olympic. Gibbons, who recently defeated Jack Bloomfield, light-heavyweight champion of England, in the third round of a scheduled 12 round bout, received only $12,000 for his share of the proceeds of the bout, Kane said. He had been guaranteed $50,000, according to Kane, who charged poor management on the part of the British promoter. Both the fighter and his manager expressed themselves as pleased with the treatment accorded them by British sportsmen.

Gibbons will proceed at once to his home in St. Paul. His plans for the future are unsettled, he said.

REBUILD NOSE OF DEMPSEY

Made Over For the Movie Directors

Los Angeles, Aug. 20.—Who ever opposes Jack Dempsey in the next battle for the heavyweight ring championship will have an opportunity to test his marksmanship on a nice new nose.

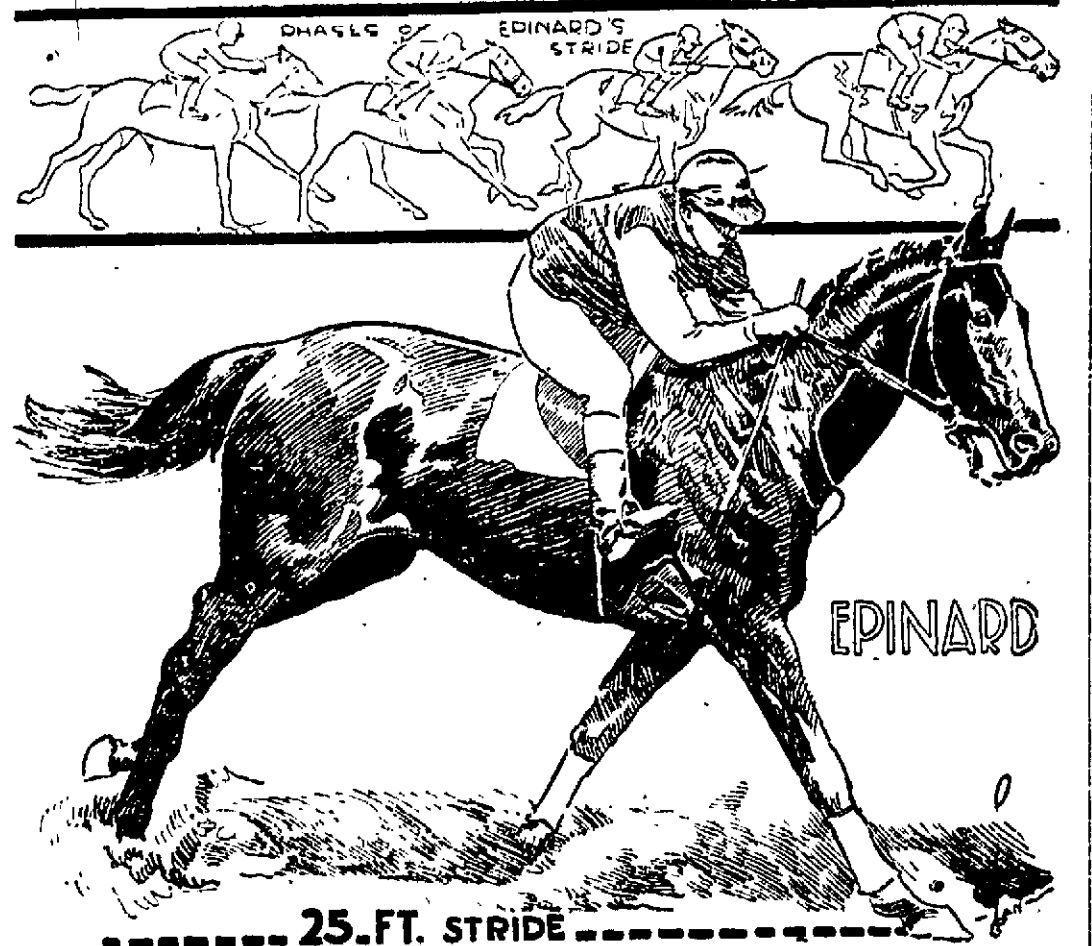

The world's champion went into retirement with a bandaged face after being to the filmland of having one's nose rebuilt to suit the camera man.

Since Dempsey has been publicly connected with the motion picture industry, all summer, there was no way out of it, and accordingly the plastic surgeon, was given permission to cut away a piece of the boxer's ear and put it where it would make his nose look like Valentino's.

The Pennsylvania Hospital, in Philadelphia, operates under charter originally granted to it by George II of England in 1751.

EPINARD TAKES STEPS 25 FEET LONG!

Champion Horse of French Turf, Here For Series of Match Races, Has Longest Stride of Any Known Racer

By NEA Service
Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 20.—One reason why American turfmen are beginning to fear Epinard, the visiting turf champion of France, is that he has the longest stride of any known thoroughbred.

Actual measurements have shown that Epinard's stride is a fraction better than 25 feet. No other great runner known to the turf can show a stride to match this.

Epinard's present stride is better even than was Man o' War's when the great American horse was running at the top of his brilliant form. Horsemen say that Man o' War's maximum stride was 24 feet 9 inches. These were his figures when he broke all time records in winning the Lawrence Realization Stakes several years ago.

Epinard is one of the longest horses for his height ever to be seen in action in this country. In this respect he is the freak of the turf. Nevertheless, Epinard is capable of great speed and his abnormally long strides enable him to cover plenty of ground with each bound.

We must safeguard our own interest, run our schools at the high rate of efficiency and keep within the law as to expenditures.

We sincerely hope that no student will be prevented from entering our schools because of lack of economic conditions. We should regret very much to lose from our enrollment those pupils from the outside who have come here year after year, and have made records both in scholarship and conduct. They have helped materially in the building up of our schools and we should like to have them continue to come.

That it did not enroach on the sovereignty of the United States.

"Perhaps," he said, "if those who drew the League plan had felt it incumbent to make its exact meaning as clear to the average man as those who drew it, the United States might have been spared immersion for five years in the immense fog bank of debate on the League."

The Democratic platform declaration on the League, he characterized as "an invitation to a man to enter that fog of debate in a public refereed game."

Two Big Principles
He thought that the people of the United States have settled on "two great fundamental principles," first that the country's sovereignty and independence must always be preserved, and second that the country should meet its international duties cheerfully. These two principles, he said, the Harding-Gobbs administration inaugurated a constructive policy, with important steps in the four great international treaties and the expert committee on reparations.

"With the experts plan inaugurated," he said, "all Europe turns toward a new and peaceful life. The United States will be saved from the depths of an inevitable and great depression in industry and agriculture when the continued chaos and misery in Europe would entail, if indeed the whole world enters upon a period of peace and prosperity."

"In the propositions of President Coolidge in connection with the World Court, there is safeguarded the sovereignty of the United States and its interests."

THE WORLD COURT

Likening the World Court to a court house, Mr. Dawes said:

"I do not want to try cases in it, unless we desire to. But we must remember that sometimes when a house is built it may be a very convenient thing to go into it to avoid rain and lightning. Yes, and probably avoid the thunder-bolts of war."

Asserting that American citizenship will trust its representatives to uphold its rights and the flag in any conflict of peace as it trusts "its belief behind the flag in war," Mr. Dawes said:

"The Republican platform on foreign relations outlines a policy which, carried out with the common sense, clear vision and courage of Calvin Coolidge, offers the American people a constructive course of honor, safety and progress. It offers the only policy which at this time means the possibility of accomplishment."

Mr. Dawes said that in his speech at Lincoln, Nebraska, August 29, he would discuss "the non-partisan and economic agricultural question."

MARKET NEWS

WHEAT DOWN EARLY TODAY

Bearish Market Created By New Estimates

Chicago, Aug. 20. Persistent selling by commission houses made wheat prices average lower today during the early dealings. Bearish estimates of the spring crop yield in the Dakotas and Minnesota were a factor. According to a leading authority the production in the three states promises to be 65,000,000 bushels more than the latest government estimates. Opening quotations, which varied from unchanged figures to one-half cent lower, with September $1.27 1/4 and $1.28 and December $1.32 1/4 to $1.33 were followed by numerous fractional changes and then by a fractional setback all around.

Most of the selling appeared to be from northwestern and eastern sections. Weather conditions both south and north of the Canadian boundaries more favorable for harvesting and crop movements. The close was Sept. $1.27 1/4 to $1.27 3/4; Dec. $1.32 1/4 to $1.32 1/2.

MURPHY SEES DAVIS MAKING MANY FRIENDS

North Dakota Immensely Impressed With Democratic Candidate

Republicans joined with Democrats in doing honor to West Virginia native son," said Mr. Murphy. "The spectacle of 50,000 people standing and cheering in a pelting rain during the address of acceptance by Mr. Davis was the greatest tribute of loyalty and affection to a political leader I ever witnessed."

"I visited the national headquarters of the Democratic committee at Washington and the western headquarters at Chicago. I received personal assurance from Clem Shaver, campaign manager for Mr. Davis, that North Dakota would be included in the itinerary of Mr. Davis on his western tour, which probably will be made early in September."

"I was especially impressed with the striking personality of Mr. Davis and his effectiveness as a campaign speaker. As Mr. Davis himself expressed it at the luncheon given for the national committee at Clarksburg, the coming campaign will be no kid-gloved affair. I believe Mr. Davis will grow in strength in the west as his campaign tour gives him an opportunity to become acquainted with the people. It will be mighty hard for anyone who has seen and heard John W. Davis to fail to have confidence in his qualifications for the presidency."

COMING TO STATE

R. B. Murphy, Democratic national committeeman from North Dakota, has returned from the notification ceremonies at Clarksburg, West Virginia, enthusiastic over John W. Davis, nominee. The demonstration accorded Mr. Davis in Clarksburg was described as "wonderful" by Mr. Murphy.

VETERAN N. P. CONDUCTOR IS DEAD IN FARGO

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 20.—James Gorman, 67, 115 Twelfth st. N., resident of Fargo for 34 years, died at his home here of a stroke of paralysis following a serious illness since last Friday. Mr. Gorman had been a railroad conductor for the past 41 years in the employ of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific roads.

He was born in Ottawa, Can., April 1, 1857. He came to North Dakota in 1883, settling at Larimore, to take a position with the Great Northern railway. While at Larimore he married Emma Edwards, Nov. 22, 1887. He came to Fargo 26 years ago and took a position with the Northern Pacific, which he held until two weeks ago, when he was forced to resign because of illness.

Mr. Gorman was the victim of a stroke about a year ago and had never fully recovered from it, although he continued working.

He became unconscious Sunday night and did not regain consciousness.

He was a member of the Knights of Columbus, Order of Railway Conductors, and Yeomen lodges.

Mr. Gorman leaves his wife, two sisters, Mrs. Kate Stevens, Ortonville, Minn.; Mrs. M. Douglas, Ontario, Can.; two daughters, Mrs. F. P. LeVelle and Margaret Gorman, Fargo, and seven sons, Thomas J., Frank J., Walter A., Clifford P., and Jerome S., all of Fargo; Edward J., Portland, Ore., and Leo, of Astoria, Ore.

Funeral services will be held from the St. Mary's cathedral at 9 a. m. Thursday, Father Thomas Egan officiating. Burial will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

Squaw in Calif. Is 120 Years Old

Yosemite, Cal., Aug. 20.—Apparently authentic records indicate that "Indian Lucy," a squaw living in the Yosemite Valley, is 120 years old. She is believed to be one of the oldest women in the world.

Lucy lives in a typical Indian tepee not far from Camp Curry, but keeps out of sight of the tourists. She has difficulty in walking, but otherwise retains full possession of her faculties. She can remember clearly the events of 100 years ago. She was living in the valley when the first white men made their entrance and finds pleasure in relating the details of their occupation.

1,500 FORMER N. D. PEOPLE AT ANNUAL PICNIC

Many Gather in Defiance Park on Puget Sound, with Unusual Attendance

RENEW ACQUAINTANCE

Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 20.—The annual North Dakota picnic, in Point Defiance park, with an attendance which approximated 1,500, was considered one of the largest and most successful the association has held. Not only were many Puget Sound cities represented, but other sections of the Coast, California, Oregon, and Canada, sent their quota. There were also visitors from North Dakota and Minnesota.

No formal program was arranged, as the majority wished to renew old friendships and meet former neighbors. Instead of addresses, Frank H. Parks, president of the organization, called for short talks. Responses were made by W. H. Stutsman of Mandan, a visitor in the city; John Sorlie, formerly of Grand Forks, now of Tacoma; E. Ostlund, a former resident of Hillsboro, now of Seattle; and John F. E. of Enid, who came to North Dakota in 1871, sent there by the Hudson Bay Company 18 years before North Dakota became a state.

50 "Old Timers" Fifty of the picnic throng removed to North Dakota between the years of 1868 and 1885. Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Murphy, who came from Bremer to attend the picnic, settled in Pembina, N. D., in 1881.

Registration in charge of Dr. John Aranson Johnson was arranged under seven localities, each city and vicinity listed in a separate book. The largest and most fully represented were Bismarck and vicinity, with 150; Minot and vicinity, 147; Grand Forks and vicinity, 146; Dickinson and vicinity, 115; Valley City, Jamestown and vicinity, 111; Fargo district, 99; and Williston and vicinity, 45. Ward county had 72 former residents present, with Stark county registering 67.

The University of North Dakota was represented by an enthusiastic group, taking over college days. The Valley City State Normal also had former students among the crowd of picnicers. Among them was Mrs. Anna Cook Denny of Everett, for many years secretary of the Valley City Normal and formerly teacher of penmanship. She drove from Everett for the day, accompanied by a group of normal graduates. Other educators, formerly of North Dakota, included Mrs. Esther Pike Griffin of Seattle, who taught calisthenics at the University of North Dakota.

Preparations for the reunion were most completely perfected under the direction of an able committee, co-operating with the president, Mr. Parks, and the association secretary, Mrs. John Aranson Johnson, who carried out a plan of publicity which announced the picnic gathering in all the newspapers of the Northwest.

Registration books used at the reunion, with names, places of residence, and other data, will be kept on file by the secretary, forming a convenient state directory of North Dakota people now living in the west.

Many "U" People The following former University of North Dakota people were present: Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Griffin (Esther Pike); Mr. and Mrs. Bert Johnson (Mabel Holt Johnson); Ida, Laura, and Edna Myre, Luella Coe, A. B. Comfort, Miss Cora B. Adams, Miss Amy Gunther, Miss Anna Berg, Dr. and Mrs. John Aranson Johnson (Inga Knudson Johnson).

STATE BUILT HOMES CASES BEFORE COURT

Agreement Could Not Be Reached in Cases, and Matter Taken to Court

Trial of the first of several cases involving the proper payment for houses built in Bismarck by the Home Building Association of North Dakota opened before District Judge Fred Jansoni here today. The cases, numbering about 14, were those in which an agreement on the price to be paid could not be reached between the Industrial Commission and the home builders.

William Langer, attorney for the Home Builders, contended that under a stipulation entered into by him and then Attorney-General Johnson in 1922, the discount from the book value fixed as a result of two cases taken to the supreme court should apply in the settlement of all others. He contends the home purchaser may either settle or turn the house back to the state, and receive back payments made, less fair rent during the time the house was occupied.

The cases to be tried include those involving homes built by the state association for J. A. Graham, J. A. Jones, Mattie E. Payne, F. J. Grady, Wm. Kershaw, O. H. Lerum and Chas. Rosen, O. Lundquist.

To Organize In Grand Forks

Grand Forks, Aug. 20.—Definite organization of towns in Grand Forks county for protection against bandits and other marauders is expected soon. J. B. Wineman, state's attorney, and Odine Overby, sheriff, are to leave today on a visit to the different towns to bring about such organization if possible.

Conferences with the officials of the different towns to arrange for such protection are to be held by Mr. Wineman and Mr. Overby. It is planned to serve at least two night watchmen and to name one or more deputy sheriffs in each community.

Continuance of this special method of protection is expected for a period of about two months, Mr. Wineman said Monday.

GRAIN GRADING STATUS STILL IS UNSETTLED

Conference Fails to Evolve Method of Continuing The Department

No definite action toward a rearrangement of the method of conducting the state grain grading department, which is limited to supervision of bonding of elevators under a court stipulation, came out of a meeting here between J. N. Hagan, supervisor, member of the board of railroad commissioners and the emergency commission.

The emergency commission, having advanced about $15,000 to the department, has held it cannot longer give from the emergency fund for the upkeep of the department. J. N. Hagan, supervisor, maintains the emergency commission should continue to support the department. The board of railroad commissioners, at the conference, held that its duties and powers ended with appointment of the supervisor, and that it would take no action before Mr. Hagan had decided on his course.

The state grain grading act, under which the department was established, was attacked by elevator companies, the suit pending in the United States Supreme Court. It had been agreed between the elevator companies and the state, however, that the department might function to the extent of requiring bonds from elevators to protect storage grain. The department had no funds, the legislature having appropriated $50,000 but provided it must come from the fees collected.

Mr. Hagan declared he has due him $500 back salary and does not see how he can continue the department long.

CREDIT BANKS CUT DISCOUNT

Reduced to 4 1/2 Per Cent For Co-ops

Washington, Aug. 20.—Reduction of re-discount rates was authorized for intermediate credit banks by the federal farm loan board. The new rate to financial institutions is 5 percent and to co-operative marketing associations 4 1/2 percent.

The rates heretofore have ranged up to 6 percent on some classes of paper and to 5 1/2 percent on others. The action of the board in authorizing a cut in the rates is in line with the easier money market throughout the country. The board, in an official statement, said the reductions were due largely to the lower interest rates which it has had to pay on debentures of the intermediate credit system.

Farm loans board officials declared the reductions, coming at this time, would mean a great saving to the agricultural communities, particularly through the direct loans to co-operatives. It was said that a majority of the volume of farm products will be marketed in the next few months and the lower re-discount rates for the co-operatives will bring a corresponding saving to them and their members.

Loans through the intermediate credit system now outstanding aggregate something in excess of $87,000,000 with a constant call for more money at this season of the year.

Commissioner Cooper of the board, said that some of these loans are maturing and such renewals are being brought will bear the lower rate of interest. The renewals are expected, however, to be smaller than usual because of the improved position of agriculture generally.

John W. Davis Prepares For Two Speeches Soon

Locust Valley, N. Y., Aug. 20.—John W. Davis remained at his home here today so as to give more of his attention to the subject matter of the message he is to deliver to the democracy of Ohio, August 26, and to study matters of campaign strategy to him by those of his advisers having that work in hand.

The speech which the Democratic presidential candidate is to deliver at Seagirt, N. J., Friday, is completed. It will be his first since President Coolidge delivered his acceptance address and for that reason is regarded by many as one of the most important Mr. Davis will deliver during the campaign.

CIVILIANS GIVEN CHANCE FOR BIG SHOOT

May Attend National Matches To be Held at Camp Perry, Ohio, Soon

An opportunity is offered North Dakota crack shots to join a civilian rifle team and participate in the national matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, September 5 to October 2, 1924.

Applications must be made without delay to the Adjutant-General's office here. It is desired to take a civilian team of 13 members, leaving Fargo on September 4 with the two National Guard Rifle team, which assemblies in Fargo on that date.

Expenses are paid by the government. Information concerning the shoot, announced today by Major Harold Sorenson of the Adjutant-General's office, provides that Governors of the several states are authorized to designate 13 able-bodied men to attend the matches conducted at Camp Perry by the War Department. Each team will consist of one team captain, 10 shooting members and two alternates. Reimbursement of travel expense and commutation of subsistence allowance shall be made to civilians regularly designated to attend. Travel is paid at five cents per mile. The age of members must be between 17 and 45 years.

Major Sorenson hopes to receive many applications, but declares they must come in without delay.

BOY AND GIRL ARE HOLDUPS

Take Money For Sick Baby. They Tell Victims

St. Paul, Aug. 20.—Declaring that "the your money or our lives; our baby is sick, and if we don't get money tonight, we'll kill ourselves," a boy and girl, neither appearing more than 18 years old, held up three women last night. Although the women had more than $40 in their purses, the youthful bandits only took $12. The victims said the boy was armed with a revolver. Mrs. Strong, of Chicago, one of the victims who is visiting here, asked for money enough to buy a ticket home. The boy handed back six of the $15 he had taken from her.

OBSERVANCE OF DAY URGED

Governor Would Pay Tribute To Gen. Lafayette

Observance of Lafayette-Marne day in North Dakota was urged today by Governor Nestos in a statement. "I have been requested to proclaim September sixth, the anniversary of the birth of Lafayette and the tenth anniversary of the battle of the Marne, as a legal holiday," the Governor said. "It does not seem advisable to do this but I am sure that friendship of Lafayette for the leaders in the American Revolution, his devotion to the cause of liberty, and his helpful interest in promoting the growth and greatness of the Republic, were of such value to America that every patriotic citizen will be glad indeed to devote a portion of September sixth to a thoughtful consideration of the political and international ideals exemplified by Lafayette."

"The fact that an equestrian statue of Lafayette, placed near the Washington monument in Baltimore, is to be unveiled on that day, makes the anniversary of his birth of exceptional interest this year."

GIRL IS HELD AS WITNESS

Ft. Yates, N. D., Aug. 20.—The girl giving her name as Alice Marshall, held in the Dr. W. R. Shortridge case, was arrested on a charge of submitting to a criminal operation and placed under $2,000 bond here, to be held as a witness against Dr. Shortridge. States Attorney George Purchase says she has signed a full confession. He also learned, he said, that she gave a fictitious name and that her home is not in Lemmon, S. D.

SAN FRANCISCO WILL EXTEND HER HARBOR

San Francisco, Aug. 20.—The water front of San Francisco will be extended 20 miles beyond its present limits for the development of a great industrial section if the United States government approves plans for dredging a deep-water ship canal south from Hunter's Point, in San Francisco, to Ravenswood in San Mateo county. The project is being pushed not only by San Francisco, but by every city and district for 50 miles down the peninsula to San Jose.

Besides dredging a channel, it is planned to reclaim 20,000 acres of tidelands for industrial sites. The land would be reclaimed through use of the dredged earth.

San Francisco has a water front that is owned and operated by the public. Title to the property is in the state of California and harbor affairs are administered by a board of three harbor commissioners. The city at present has 15 miles of berthing space for vessels, with 5,000,000 square feet of cargo area. The new facilities are intended to increase the harbor space to more than double and to provide a vast number of potential factory sites.

LEAVE OUT "OBEY" Sacramento, Calif., Aug. 20.—Love and honor, yes—but "obey," never! The word "obey" has become obsolete in marriage ceremonies in Yuba county. Justice of the Peace George Herzog says not one couple in the last two years has allowed him to use the word.

British broadcasters are inviting American playwrights to participate in their radio play contest.

Arabs love bargaining

Eloquence is the accomplishment on which Arabs most pride themselves. They are continually hurling rhetoric, proverbs, poetical quotations at each other. Of course, there are many opportunities for speechmaking, but they enjoy it most while engaged in buying and selling.

No matter how simple and staple the article may be, fifteen minutes is the least that can be taken over a transaction. And then it has been greatly hurried!

Just imagine if we had to bargain for fifteen minutes over everything we bought! Yet not so very long ago, every purchase was a matter of bargaining. It is thanks to advertising that it is no longer so today.

We sometimes forget how important advertising is. We do not realize all it is doing for us. Yet, if it had achieved nothing more than to do away with bargaining, it would be a boon to mankind. But it does more. It puts purchasing on a business basis. It protects you against fraud and inferiority. You can plan your shopping according to your pocketbook, and not according to the patience and bargaining ability of everyone you will have to face. When you think it over you must realize that it pays to read the advertisements.

Car Parts-- Car Transportation-- Which Are You Buying?

Any automobile considered by itself alone represents only so much machinery capable of propelling itself over streets and highways.

Its value as a constant dependable transport unit depends upon the character and accessibility of the things which daily operation makes necessary. Local responsibility for it measures its value in local use.

The basic policy of this establishment provides complete local responsibility for everything we sell.
